Sinn Fein Guard to Escort Mac-Swiney's Body From Lon-

London.—Impressive funeral honors will be accorded Terence MacSwiney who began life as a clerk and died in a spectacular manner for Ireland.
The home office promised today there will be no interference with plans of Irish leaders who announced MacSwiney's body will lie in state in St. George's cathedral to be carried later in solemn procession to elthrain for the journey to an Irish grave. Officials said the only restriction on the funeral services will be that no Sinn Fein firing squad will be permitted to officiate at the grave. One of Mac-Swiney's requests was that the funeral orations be pronounced in Gaelic.
There was no official opposition to that.

The deputy lord mayor of Cork arrived here today with a body guard of fifty Sinn Feiners and representatives of many Irish societies. It was reported that Eireann, the Irish parliament, may attend the funeral in a body.
After the inquest, expected to be concluded Wednesday morning, Mac-Swiney's body will be taken to St.
George's cathedral. It will lie in state under guard of his followers until 11
a. m. Thursday. At that hour solemn mass will be celebrated by Bishop Mannix and Bishop Crotty, of Portland.

Ireland is Quiet MacSwiney's orders were obeyed in Ireland. His desire there be no demonstration at his death was respected.
Despite the quiet that fell upon the island with the announcement death had occurred, there was air of anxiety here. Heavy guards continued to patrol the grounds of Brixton prison.
In Ireland extra guards were established and precautions taken against possible reprisals.

Downing street, the residence of Premier Lloyd George, was closed to the public, a cordon of police stretching across the entrance from Whitehall.

The news of MacSwiney's death was followed quickly by that of another hunger striker, Joseph Murphy, one of the original eleven imprisoned in Cork jail died at 8:45 last night. It was his 76th day of fasting.

Murphy was said to have claimed American citizenship. His father, however, said although the boy was born at Lymass, Mass., he was not a citizen. "The father never had completed naturalization."

Sinn Fein leaders in Ireland joined in requesting that no disorder be permitted. In this they were supported by Father Dominick, MacSwiney's chaplain. He said Irish people should "adopt the same dignified attitude that prevailed at the time of the death of Mayor Thomas MacBurtain."

The deputy lord mayor in a statement accused the government of murdering MacSwiney and MacBurtain. He said he had received threatening letters from Sinn Fein, but asserted a republican will hold their office of lord mayor until the last republican in Cork is dead.

Father Dominick, in an interview here said the MacSwiney family and friends were glad the fast had ended.
Father Dominick, describing Mac-Swiney's last moments, said the lord mayor lay motionless for hours, his eyes wide open and staring. He was unconscious all the while. The priest whispered prayers and left the room while the physicians injected drugs to strengthen the heart.

Stop "Vengeance Party"
London.—A "vengeance expedition" of eight Sinn Feiners enroute to England to attempt reprisals for the death of Lord Mayor MacSwiney was apprehended today at Kingstown, Ireland, the Irish office announced.

During MacSwiney's hunger strike
it was reported Premier Lloyd George would be marked for assassination if the lord mayor died.

The eight men, described as "desperate characters," were seized by soldiers as they were about to board a boat for Holyhead, the nearest English landing.

The men were said to wear Sinn Fein uniforms under their outer garments and to carry a number of disguises. The party was bent on criminal enterprises in reprisal for Mayor MacSwiney's death, the Irish office declared.

The eight men were believed to be from Cork and not connected with MacSwiney's Sinn Fein funeral body guard.

The men were dragged to shore and placed under military arrest. They refused to give their names and maintained a defiant attitude.

Unidentified Man Dies After Gun Battle With Po-

Chicago.—Trapped in a vacant lot having killed a policeman early today gave battle to a squad of eighteen officers who rained bullets on him from all sides. He was fatally wounded when he attempted to break through the police line. He died later.
Shortly after midnight, Patrol Sergeant Edward Marpool was shot and killed when he attempted to arrest a man who had been flourishing a revolver. The assailant fired the shot in the dark and escaped after a shooting duel with two other policemen.
Two girls, believed to have been with him, were taken into custody.
A police squad cornered a suspect but he escaped after an exchange of shots. The police again picked up the trail, surrounded the suspect and as he started to run across a vacant lot the entire posse let loose a volley of shots. More than a dozen shots were believed to have found their mark.

MRS. DEETO TO BE HELD
PENDING MURDER PROBE

By United Press Leased Wire
Los Angeles, Cal.—The arrest of Mrs. R. C. Deeto was ordered today by the district attorney's office which investigated the murder of Jacob C.
Denton, wealthy Los Angeles broker whose body was found in a tomb in his home here.
Mrs. Deeto was Denton's housekeeper.
She was in Denver with her invalid husband when the body was discovered but returned here for the grand jury probe. She disappeared the day she was to testify before the grand jury and authorities have been unable to find her since.
District Attorney Woolwine said Mrs.
Deeto's arrest had been ordered "in connection with Denton's murder."

Bologna.—Owen Bohan, an assistant in the district attorney's office in New York, was to be the first witness today in the trial of Alfred Cocchi, charged with murdering Ruth Crug-er.

Cocchi took part in the court proceedings, volubly explaining his flight from New York when the murder trail led to his bicycle shop there. He reiterated his statement he first confessed the murder to protect his wife.
The prisoner went to trial once previously but the hearing was delayed to permit investigation of Cocchi's charge his wife committed the murder.
The charge was disproved.

Miss Cruger was murdered in February, 1917. Visiting Cocchi's shop he found a pair of skates sharpened she never was seen alive again. The body was found in the basement of the shop.

Local Merchants Declare That Cost of Living Has Received Severe Jolt in Last Few Weeks

—Pastries Up Despite Cheaper Materials—Vegetables Are Way Down.

There is happiness in the camp of the ultimate consumer these days. Almost everything he buys from his grocery store has come down in price.
Only canned goods, a few dairy products, and pastries hold to their top level. The vegetable and fruit markets have not been so favorable in years for the housewife.
The mild weather is largely responsible for the low vegetable and fruit prices," said William Lickerman.
"Crops have been allowed to mature without interference from frost, and almost everything raised shows a record crop this year. A surplus usually brings low prices, but you would find that some prices would be double what they are if there had been a real cold spell at this time."

Sugar is at the lowest price for some time. Mr. Lickerman does not blame this on the best sugar crop, because it is not yet on the market.
He states that it seems to be a general condition all over the country.
The best cane sugar sells for 13 to 14 cents a pound, and some sugar has even been offered as low as 12 cents, but it can hardly be bought wholesale for that now.

Vegetables Way Down

Farmers get such low prices for vegetables that they will not take the trouble to bring them to town. Mr.
Lickerman states: "Cabbage can be bought for one-half cent a pound, and shippers are paying only 45 a ton. A year ago they received three times as much. Cabbage sold at $15, $18 and $22 a ton last year and there seemed hardly enough to fill the demand."

Potatoes are not bringing the farmer such a large revenue this year.
They hesitate to bring the potatoes to town and receive only 80 cents a bushel wholesale. A year ago they received two and three dollars. There is a large supply on the market, and the weather has permitted them to mature and be dug before the frost spoiled any of them.

An unusual condition also obtains in the apple market. The housewife does not seem to care for the apples raised around the country. Farmers say it does not pay to even pick them from the trees. They can be purchased for three to five cents a pound, but the average shopper prefers to pay 15 cents a pound for the eastern apples, which are of a harder variety, attractive in appearance, and free from worms, blight or other defects.
One wholesaler has been asked for the first time in his experience to ship imported apples to Shiocton, Seymour and other towns in the county. The dealers in these places sell mostly to the farmer, which is an indication that farmers who have apples of their own prefer the eastern apple instead of those they raise.

Grapes are not as plentiful as in past years, and the price therefore remains somewhat high. Those shipped in from a distance do not keep in the warm weather, and therefore are not bought in large quantities by the dealers. The price stays around 50 cents a basket. Bananas have come down two or three cents a pound within the last week or two.

Many other staples have declined in price, both wholesale and retail. Coffee is about 10 cents a pound cheaper.
Flour has come down one dollar a barrel in the past two weeks. Canned milk is the cheapest it has been in a long time and it is said that many of the condensaries have shut down completely.

Milk Is Way Down

A farmer made the statement that the price paid him for milk is the lowest in many months. At the price he gets, he says milk ought to be sold to the consumer at eight cents a quart. Another says that it is only worth five cents a quart to the consumer, on the basis of the butter fat content. The creameries hold to their contention that they must accept a larger profit at such times to make up

THINK CREMATION HELPS SPIRIT COMMUNICATION

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago.—Cremation aids communication with spirits, according to leading theosophists of Chicago who today took issue with Camille Flammarion, noted French scientist, that the burning of the body causes difficulty in establishing lines of communication with the dead.

"Slow disintegration of the body
after burial tends to hold the soul earth-bound but cremation frees it instantly thereby allowing the spirit to communicate at once," said Miss Gail Wilson, trustee of the American section of the Occultical Society.

Walter G. Greenleaf, the ophiolite, held cremation is actually only the process of disintegrating the body by rapid combustion instead of the slow process known as decay.
"It seems likely that speed or slowness of the process can have little or no effect upon the subtle body in which man lives during the earlier stages of his postmortem existence," he said.

Under ordinary circumstances, Miss Wilson and Greenleaf, agree it takes about 48 hours after death for the soul to pass to the spirit world. They intimated perhaps the passing of the soul is quicker when the mortal body is cremated.

COX READY TO

Nominee Expresses His Confidence That Labor Is Favorable to League.

(By Herbert W. Walker)
By United Press Leased Wire
Enroute with Governor Cox, Huntington, W. Va.—Governor James M.
Cox's belief is in the event of his election he can obtain ratification of the peace treaty through a compromise with the senate based on a series of reservations about "half way" between those of Senator Hitchcock and those of Senator Lodge, it was learned today.

"This is the interpretation which the governor's advisers who are with him on his stump tour, place on his statement here that 'the sort of agreement which I shall be enabled to obtain will be determined by the senatorial elections.'"

The governor has made it plain he considers the ratification of the treaty of vital concern to the United States and to accomplish this end he will be willing to go considerably further than President Wilson did in affecting a compromise. Wilson approved the Hitchcock reservations but rejected those of Lodge. Cox said if too much has to be given in compromise now it can be corrected or modified by the people at later elections.

Democratic leaders believed Cox's statement that he will accept the views of the new senate to a considerable extent will be a big factor in winning more pro-league republicans to the democratic fold. Cox is confident republican leaders such as Elihu Root can no longer attempt to claim he wants the league just as negotiated.
After stops at Kenova, W. Va., and Ashland, Ky., today, Cox will be back in Ohio for the final fight of the campaign. With just a week remaining he will continue to stress the league as the dominant issue of the campaign.

Upon concluding his trip through the mining districts of West Virginia, the governor said he was confident labor is for the league.

F. C. Roberts, representative of the American Federation of Labor, who has been touring the state, told the governor today 86 per cent of the West Virginia workmen will vote for him and he is confident this will swing
the state into the democratic column.

PREMIER WINNING
ANOTHER VICTORY

Miner Leaders Are Anxious to Avoid General Strike in Great Britain.

(By Charles M. McCann)
By United Press Leased Wire

London.—An agreement to end the British coal strike appeared at hand today. All miners' union executives attended a conference with Premier Lloyd George at 11:30 a. m. indicating formal negotiations had replaced "conventions."

Frank Hodges, secretary of the miners' federation, supported that interpretation when he said the conference of delegates would decide whether the proposed terms should be approved and submitted to a ballot.

"The terms were said unofficially to provide a two shilling per day increase for the miners with a stimulation for increased production."

Laborites were understood to regard the plan for increased production as a dangerous precedent but they were anxious to avoid a general strike.
The fact had grown that if a general strike did develop, Lloyd George would seize upon it to call a general election on the issue "nation vs. unions." In that event they foresaw the return of the Lloyd George government by heavy majorities.

Meanwhile the trades union congress went ahead with its plans for an executive meeting Wednesday.
Originally called to see what should be done to support the miners, the congress now will consider the general labor situation.

There was said to be a concerted movement to create a high labor committee and dissolve the council of action, formed to aid in obtaining peace with Russia.

The miners' strike has been expensive for nation and men alike. Two million workers were unemployed and 120,000 more were on short time

Three hundred and fifty thousand were obtaining strike benefits. It was estimated the disturbance had cost taxpayers $15,000,000 and the miners have lost $40,000,000 in wages. In addition, 4,600,000 tons of coal that should have been dug last week remain in the ground.

REGENCY IS ESTABLISHED

Paul's Absence From Country

By United Press Leased Wire
Athens.—The election of Admiral Condouriotis as regent of Greece was considered certain today. The chamber of deputies will select a regent to rule the country until Prince Paul or another ruler is selected.

By United Press Leased Wire
London.—Prince Paul has been called to the Greek throne to succeed his brother, Alexander. The Greek legation announced today.

Because of Paul's absence from the country, a regency will be established, a council of cabinet ministers ruling the country until this is established, it was said.

The legation made public a message from the council of ministers to the public. It read:

"In accordance with constitutional order, Prince Paul has been called to the throne, but owing to his absence from Greece and existing relations between the government and ex-King Constantine's family, the government has convoked the chamber which will elect a provisional regent. Meantime the constitutional power of royalty will be exercised by the council of ministers."

Blood Poisoning Sets In

Athens.—King Alexander of Greece died yesterday afternoon at 4:10.

Death resulted from apparently trivial injuries sustained when the king was bitten by a pet monkey. Blood poisoning developed from the bite.

The death of the king raised the question of succession. Who will name the next ruler and who it shall be were causes of speculation. King Alexander was the second son of the deposed King Constantine and the presumptive heir Alexander's younger brother, Paul, will succeed to the throne.

However, the question of Paul's availability has been raised and the suggestion made that a foreign prince be given the throne.

In 1917, an attempt was made to declare a republic with Premier Venizelos as the first president. It was regarded as possible that the cry be raised again.

Prohibition Enforcement Will Be Pushed Harder Than Ever Hereafter.

(By Ralph F. Couch)
Washington.—Prohibition enforcement officials here were making preparations today to hit the line hard in the next few weeks in the battle against the bootlegger as a result of recent exposures of "liquor rings"
and "booze curb markets" in Chicago,
New York and other cities.

John F. Kromer, prohibition commissioner, has a new alignment of forces with which to conduct the offensive.

Directly responsible to Kramer is a field force of nearly 2,000 officers.
Backing him up is attorney General
Palmer with more than 50 district attorneys and their assistants plus 400 United States marshals and their deputies.

Maintaining a continuous watch on the border between the United States and Canada in New England and at Detroit, in Florida and in Texas are 1,500 United States customs inspectors.

Because of the recent disclosures in Chicago and New York, congress is certain to act on the problem at the December session. Enemies of prohibition are expected to take advantage of the disclosures to work for modification of the Volstead law.

Government officials are preparing estimates asking for bigger appropriations for enforcement of the Volstead law during the coming year. Approp-iations so far allowed are insufficient in comparison with the difficulties, according to Kramer.

Disposition of the bonded liquor is one of the issues which is certain to be raised in congress. Approximately 55,000,000 gallons are held in bond.

LONDON PAPER CONDEMNS
COX PROMISE TO IRELAND

London.—Governor Cox's promise to bring the cause of Ireland before the "bar of public opinion," was condemned by the Globe today as "not only impertinent but wicked."

"If he really as president were to attempt to carry out his promise, it could only be done at a cost of fratricidal war," the Globe said.

"If the Americans view that prospect with the same horror as ourselves, they had better clap a muzzle on Cox."
"We cannot endure meekly Cox's impudence in a matter that is Great Britain's own affair," the editorial said.

Probe Slaying of Appleton Man

Chicago.—Further investigation of the shooting of the Rev. Frederick Ruff, minister-landlord, by one of his tenants, Fred W. Sextro, here, will be demanded by Max C. Liss, attorney for the pastor, in his controversies with his tenants.

The Rev. Mr. Ruff was formerly pastor of German Methodist church in Appleton, Wis., and was instructor in German at Lawrence college for several years. He left Appleton in 1914.
A coroner's jury exonerated Sextro,

who says he shot Ruff in the hallway of the apartment house believing him a burglar. Liss says he is not satisfied that all of the facts have been brought to light. Ruff had been accused of profiteering by his tenants and some had posted placards in their windows declaring him an unfair landlord. The picture shows Ruff (seated), and his children, Ruth Ruff, aged 2, left; Marie Ruff, aged 7, right, and Mrs. Luella Weston, confessor, another tenant, who found Ruff's body before her door.

Harding Believes U. S. Should

By United Press Leased Wire
Marion, Ohio.—"The only safe course for America is to remain outside the league of nations until a plan for an association of nations can be united upon which our precise obligations will be known beyond uncertainty or equivocation," Senator Warren G. Harding declared today, in commenting on the statement of Leon Bourgeois, president of the league council.

Bourgeois stated Article 10 was not a vital part of the covenant. This Senator Harding interpreted to mean that if Article 10 is eliminated its effect would still be preserved in other sections of the covenant. The statement of M. Bourgeois aroused considerable speculation around Harding headquarters.

Senator Harding has never turned his back entirely on the league of nations idea, although he is unreservedly against entering it as it now stands.
Mr. Bourgeois is supposed here to have taken his cue from Senator Harding's declaration at Rochester, New York, that he will never as president, send to the senate a covenant with Article 10 in it.

In all his attacks on the league,
Harding has centered his fire on Ar-utterly impossible of acceptance. With Dallas, Tex., Oct. 25.—Mexico was the first country to be disposed of by the United States.

As minister of industry and commerce in the new Mexican government, I am interested today in the development of his country's resources for all Mexico for American goods and in the manner in which Mexico can pay.

Honest Government
"How has the Mexican government so completely cast off the goodwill of the American people?" I asked Trevino.
"I have not said," said the former minister of industry and commerce, "that the Mexican government is a democracy and a democratic one. I believe the goodwill is based on facts which show good faith and honesty."

Trevino came to Dallas as a special representative of the Mexican government to the Texas state fair.
It has been the effort of the Mexican government to bring about the best of friendly relations, he said, believe that the sympathies of all United States and of the other nations toward the Mexican government is due to the fact that this is the first government in the last ten years that has succeeded in the pacification of the country in a few weeks.

Manila, P. I.—Prohibition looms big on the Philippine horizon now. Many of the Americans here are opposed to prohibition while there is a growing sentiment among the Filipinos in favor of it.

D. M. A. River police of the Methodist church here is the principal exponent of prohibition. The Filipino is Francisco A. Tan, a young man, a member of the municipal board.

The municipal board recently considered a measure prohibiting the sale of liquor in Manila, but when the measure was passed down it was passed in prohibition to American soldiers, sailors and marines only.

Congressman Charles H. Rindell, member of the congressional junkyard, who visited the islands, stated he would bring the question of Philippine prohibition before Congress.

FARM LOAN BANKS DEPEND ON COURT

Supreme Court Is Divided on Constitutionality of New Agency.
(By Harry B. Hunt.)
Special to Post-Crescent.
Washington.—The fate of Uncle Sam's farm loan bank system rests today in the hands of eight men justices of the United States Supreme Court.

The outcome hangs in the main on their decision of the following questions:
1—Are the farm loan banks really banks doing an actual banking business and therefore a proper part of the government's fiscal system or are they simply an agency for loaning money at low rates of interest to farmers improperly misquoting as "banks"?

2—Is any public purpose within the meaning of the constitution served by the operation of such banks?
3—Do federal loans to farmers through the farm loan system constitute class aid in that they benefit farmers only or are they of general public benefit by the stimulus they give to agriculture and the production of foodstuffs?

4—Is the creation of an agency to loan money to farmers justified under the powers of appropriation granted Congress by the constitution?
Private banking interests opposed to the government's breaking the monopoly they have held on farm mortgage loans maintain that the whole farm loan act is unconstitutional, indefensible and a transgression of all the rights and privileges reserved to the states and to individuals under the constitution.

Court Divided
They argued their case before the Supreme Court eight months ago and the court it is understood split four to four on a decision. Justice Brandeis not having participated in the hearings. A reargument was asked by the court and was heard October 14 and 15.

In the meantime, because of the cloud cast on the bonds of the system by the pending litigation it was impossible to market those securities and the whole farm loan machinery was brought virtually to a standstill.

Farmers desiring to borrow to extend their farm operations, or improve their stock or equipment, were forced to turn again to the private bankers taking short term loans at high rates of interest. Instead of the long term, low interest loans provided under the farm loan act. To this condition is traceable no little of the stringency and financial pressure now being revealed in agricultural districts, for the short term loans negotiated last spring are expiring and must be met in lump sums, not by amortization payments, as would have been the case had farmers been able to secure funds through the government system.

New Line of Argument
Through a new line of argument developed by former Supreme Court Justice Charles E. Hughes, pleading the case of the farm loan banks before the court, hopes for a verdict sustaining the constitutionality of the federal farm loan banks have considerably brightened.

Hughes argued that if Congress has the power to appropriate money directly as a gift to assist agriculture it logically follows that Congress can appropriate money for farmers, it can raise that money through the treasury by the sale of ordinary government bonds.

This angle of attack rather stamped attorneys for the private banks, who protested vehemently that Judge Hughes had sprung something new and never heard before, something that he had not advanced at the prior argument of the case and had even failed to incorporate in his revised brief.

Particular emphasis was placed by Hughes before the court that both political parties "in the heat of a great presidential campaign," agree that the farm loan system must be extended.

Among persons who followed the argument closely, the consensus of opinion seems to be that the court is likely to find about as follows:

FOUR SOLUTIONS OF IRISH PROBLEM

Little Possibility That Ireland Will Have Complete Independence.

(By C. C. Lyon.)
Belfast, Ireland.—The Irish political situation is a great puzzle and I haven't met anybody—English or Irishman—who has a definite idea how it is going to be solved.

There are at least four possible solutions:
1. A republic.
2. Dominion Home Rule.

3. Separate Home Rule for Ulster and separate Home Rule for the rest of Ireland.
4. Subdue the island with British soldiers and continue the present plan.

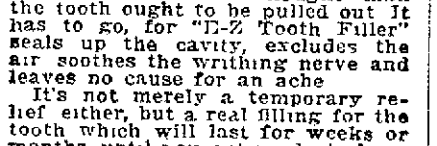

Number 4 is the least likely. The best British thought on the subject is agreed present conditions in Ireland are intolerable and that Britain must shortly announce a new policy.

No Absolute Independence
It may be safely said Britain will not voluntarily permit Ireland to sever connection with the empire and establish a republic.

Here enters the time-worn argument of war strategy. It is this, repeated to me by a high British officer in Ireland.

Toothache?

It Will Not Ache a Second After "E-Z Tooth Filler" is Applied.
"Why, it's gone already!" That's what they all say the instant after a little of "E-Z" Tooth Filler is put into the cavity. Of course it's gone and no more thought than the tooth ought to be pulled out. It has to go, for "E-Z" Tooth Filler seals up the cavity, excludes the air, soothes the writhing nerve and leaves no cause for an ache.

It's not merely a temporary relief either, but a real filling for the tooth which will last for weeks or months, until you get ready to have a permanent filling put in. Chew on it same as on other teeth. Anyone can use it. Takes but a moment to apply.

"E-Z" Tooth Filler is for sale at your druggists at 25c a bottle, or sent direct upon receipt of price by the Chas. A. Bertram Drug Co., 2471 Elston Ave. Chicago.

"For her own peace and safety, Great Britain doesn't dare permit the establishment of an unfriendly government at her very door. In the event of war, Ireland might permit her ports to be used as naval bases to our enemies and England, Scotland and Wales, could be invaded from Ireland. If Ireland were 3,000 miles from England, I believe our government would give her anything she wants and be jolly well glad to be rid of her. For hundreds of years she has given us nothing but trouble."

Dominion Home Rule for Ireland would mean the Irish people would have a parliament and premier and run their own affairs, with the same freedom Canada or Australia enjoy.

But blocking this is Ulster's threat she will bring on civil war before she will join in a government with the rest of Ireland. Moreover, British statesmen know that once complete Dominion Home Rule is given Ireland it would take only the passage of an act by the Irish Parliament to sever all connection with the Empire.

Vote for Separation
It is a foregone conclusion if Dominion Home Rule is put into effect it will be only a very short time until the Irish Parliament will declare for complete separation.

Lloyd George's last proposal, a parliament for Catholic Ireland and another for Protestant Ulster, is ridiculed throughout all the Catholic countries. In Ulster, the overwhelming sentiment is in favor of sticking with Britain.

LIGHT AND WATER RATES GO HIGHER

New London Consumers Find Another Increase in Cost of Living.

(Special to Post-Crescent)
New London.—New increased rates on city water and light have gone into effect and local consumers are noticing a considerable raise. The water department has always been operated at a loss. The minimum charge, which has been $1.25 for house meters, is now raised to nearly double in price. The minimum charge on city light which has been 75 cents per month has been raised to $1.00 or a raise of about one-fourth on the average light bill. The rate is now 13 cents per kilowatt or 12 cents if paid before the middle of each month. Many who use several electrical devices besides lights are having two meters installed thereby getting the rate cheaper for extra current used. A pleasant surprise was tendered Mrs. Katherine Danks Sunday evening by a large number of her relatives and friends who gathered to help celebrate her birthday. Several relatives from Appleton, Kaukauna and Hortonville were present besides a large number from this city. A delightful luncheon was served. The Waupaca County Training School which has been housed in the Northside school building, is facing a shortage of room. The quarters already pleasant, are rather cramped and if the normal is to expand it must have more room. The city has given free room, free heat and free janitor service to the county, and felt that in return it is benefited by the school.

MAN, "LEGALLY DEAD," WALKS IN ON FAMILY

Fond du Lac, Wis.—John Guell, declared dead, his estate probated, walked in on his friends on Monday after an absence of eight years. Guell's mind for the eight years up to three weeks ago has been a blank, he says. He remembers going to North Fond du Lac, October 9, 1912, to collect a bill. Three weeks ago he found himself in Detroit. His mind gradually cleared and Saturday he recollected the name "Fond du Lac" and came here. When he knocked at the door of his daughter's home the family were terror-stricken, thinking he was a ghost. He is in good health. A blow upon his skull, because of which a sliver of bone pierced his brain twenty years ago, is believed to have caused amnesia.

The enrollment in the public schools here has increased to such an extent that both south and north side buildings, as well as the barracks, are taxed to their capacity. Every inch of space in attic and basement is utilized and in some grades the students can come only a half day, as the teachers cannot care for them.

E. F. Ramm, local Ford dealer has returned from Shawano where he went to look after the erection of the new Ford garage. It will be built on the plan of the Ford garage at Fond du Lac, modern and spacious. The plans call for a building of red brick and tile and will be fire proof. The work will be pushed rapidly so that the agency may be in its new home before the holidays.

The Wolf River level is now about 1.6 feet above extreme low water, according to A. H. Pape. Mr. Pape has kept an accurate account of the river level for several years and reports that although it is a low mark at present, it has run as low as .8 of a foot above extreme, low water several times during the last few years.

Mr. Ebert, an employee in the Myer meat market on South Pearl street, caught his arm on a silver of a metal barrel hoop. The arm was badly torn from above the elbow nearly to the wrist. Cords and veins were badly cut and lacerated.

Those present were Mesdames Smith, Jost, Ramm, Seering, Werner, Trayer, Monstad, Feathers, Wendlandt, Pfeiffer and the Misses Coye and Smith. Messrs. G. Werner, E. C. Jost, P. R. Smith, E. W. CITIES GET MOST OF CHILD PERMITS Farming Communities Ask for Few Labor Permits—Milwaukee Leads.

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Madison.—A total of 25,507 child labor permits was issued by the industrial commission in the city of Milwaukee during the fiscal year July 1, 1919, to June 30, 1920. In the preceding year 23,943 child labor permits were issued in Milwaukee. This increase in the total number of permits was entirely in the new permits, which increased from 9,875 to 12,289. The number of re-issued permits declined slightly from 14,238 to 13,218. The increase in new permits was almost entirely during the last few months of the year.

The permits issued in Milwaukee are at least one-half of all permits issued in Wisconsin. Other cities in which a large number of child labor permits have been issued during the past year are Racine, Sheboygan, La Crosse, Oshkosh, Kenosha, Manitowish, Madison and Fond du Lac. On the other hand there are no less than fifteen counties, nearly all in the western part of the state, in which less than ten child labor permits were issued last year. Child labor in Wisconsin appears to be principally, if not wholly, a city problem.

Over 75 per cent of all permit children in Wisconsin are employed in manufacturing industries. Metals, woodworking, leather goods, knitting, paper, canning and candy manufacturing are the industries with the largest number of child labor permits. Outside of manufacturing, the most numerous establishments are largest employers of children.

About 55 per cent of all children employed on permits in Wisconsin last year presented birth certificates or baptismal certificates to prove their age. This fact illustrates that employers do not have to be satisfied with the mere word of the child or its parents as to its age. It is a comparatively simple matter to produce a birth or baptismal certificate. Practically all children in Wisconsin can do so and employers for their own protection should always demand such documentary proof of age.

USES GUN FOR PADDLE; IS VICTIM OF BULLET

Fond du Lac.—Anton Clemens, 17 years old, of Fond du Lac, was killed by the discharge of his shotgun while on a hunting trip. He was pushing a skiff away from shore to get into deep water, using the gun, which he held by the muzzle, as a beachhook. The trigger brushed the side of the boat and was pulled when it caught an oarlock.

The charge entered the boy's chest and he died almost instantly. A companion, Harry Ziebell, 20 years old, in the boat at the time, was not injured. The Clemens boy leaves two sisters, who reside in Milwaukee, Mrs. Frances Gaul and Mrs. Mabel Birdscheid.

A coroner's inquest will be held on Friday.

WOULD ASSESS PROPERTY ON BASIS OF RENTAL

Racine.—Forty thousand dollars is the amount of assessed valuation the board of review would place on a residence now assessed at $5,500, but from which annual rentals of $4,300 are received. The owner of the property, Oscar Burdick, summoned to appear before the board of review to show cause why the assessed valuation should not be increased, admitted that the valuation of $5,500, as determined by the assessors, was too low and that $10,000 would be a fair valuation. He admitted that nine tenants occupied the house, and that seven of them paid $10 a week and two of them $9 a week, but he claimed services as a janitor and also declared that he furnished tenants with kitchen utensils.

HALLOWEEN PARTY AT 3rd WARD SCHOOL—THURS. OCT. 28th. ADMISSION 25c. 10-25, 26, 27.

50 Years Ago

A young man who practiced medicine in a rural district became famous and was called in consultation in many towns and cities because of his success in the treatment of disease. This was Dr. Pierce who afterward moved to Buffalo, N. Y. He made up his mind to place some of his medicines before the public, as he put up what he called his "Favorite Prescription," and placed it with the druggists in every state in the Union. For fifty years Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has sold more largely throughout the United States than any other medicine of like character. It's the testimony of thousands of women that it has benefited or entirely cured such distressing ailments as women are prone to. It is now sold by druggists in tablet form as well as liquid.

WATERBURY, Wis.—"About eighteen years ago I was ill, doctor's medicine did not seem to give me the relief I thought I should have so I began taking Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it cured me in a short space of time. I have never had any return of my ailment."—Mrs. MARGARET STANLEY, 7th Pleasant Street.

DOOR COUNTY PRODUCES HUGE SUPPLY OF CIDER

Sturgeon Bay.—One hundred and twenty thousand gallons of apple cider made of selected Door county apples will be the output of a local canning company which is now completing the season's work. The apple picking is practically finished and the local plant has manufactured 110,000 gallons of cider which will be bottled in 120,000 before the close of the season. Besides the tremendous amount of apples that have been made into cider, carload shipments of the fresh fruit have been made to all parts of the middle west. This has been the biggest apple year the county has ever had.

RIPON BUYS $12,000 AUTO FIRE APPARATUS

Ripon.—The city of Ripon has placed an order for a $12,000 Winther municipal motor triple combination pump for its fire department with the Automotive Sales company of Fond du Lac. The machine is of the four-wheel drive type and is built by the Winther Motor Truck company at Kenosha. The apparatus ordered by this city includes every modern improvement and the specifications call for a motor of 95 horse power with a fire pump capable of delivering 500 gallons of water per minute at a pressure of 120 pounds. It will be one of the most modern pieces of fire fighting apparatus in the state.

Enrollment Kept Under 8,000 Because of Room and Financial Problems.

Madison.—Financial stringency and statewide publicity telling of a room shortage served to keep the University of Wisconsin enrollment from reaching the 8,000 mark this year. S. H. Goodnight, dean of men, said in commenting on registration figures.

The 7,570 students now enrolled set a new high total in the history of the university, but the small gain of fifty-four students over last year did not raise any serious teaching problem, he explained.

BRULE RIVER RESORTS ROUTED BY FOREST FIRES

Ashland.—The summer season on the Brule river closed this week, the few remaining resorts leaving on account of the prevalence of forest fires. Mrs. C. W. Gordon and three friends, Mrs. Shepley, Mrs. Dean and Mrs. Hill, all of St. Paul, left for their homes in St. Paul. Mrs. E. N. Saunders, her friend Mrs. Miller, and her daughter Mrs. Albert Lindke also left for St. Paul. Prof. J. E. Overton with his wife and child are still at Nissishin lodge overseeing the remodeling of the clubhouse. Prof. Overton is an instructor in the Madison university.

Percy Cochran of Elkhardt, Ind., is building a cottage near the Nissishin lodge. J. J. Watson, president of the St. Paul club, is expected on the Brule this week for a short stay.

The Brule, the best known trout stream in northern Wisconsin, now has about 30 clubhouses and bungalows, built by people from Milwaukee, Superior, Duluth, and the Twin Cities. Among the prominent guests on the Brule this season, was Herbert Hoover, who was entertained at the A. M. Marshall lodge.

MILTON TO HAVE CHORAL UNION OF 125 VOICES

Milton.—The Milton Choral union, which recently began rehearsals for its annual winter concert, will number at least 125 voices, in the opinion of Prof. L. H. Stringer, director. The Choral union this year will sing the oratorio of The Messiah, accompanied by a picked group of musicians from the Milton college symphony orchestra. Nationally known singers will be chosen for the solo parts. The annual concert will be given Dec. 22 in the Milton college auditorium.

Elderly People Need This In Medicine Chest

To relieve chronic constipation, always keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin handy.

NEARLY all people as they advance in age suffer from chronic constipation. Many, however, are indifferent to the laxative they use, on the theory that "they are all alike." That is a great mistake.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, for example, is a mild, gentle liquid laxative, and it does not lose its effect with repeated use. It so trains the bowel muscles that in time medicines of all kinds can be dispensed with.

A sixty-cent bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last many months. The prescription was written thirty years ago by Dr. W. B. Caldwell, a well-known family doctor, who is himself now in his 82nd year and can appreciate what chronic constipation must mean to elderly people; how it brings on headaches, colds, loss of appetite and sleep, heaviness and a general dull feeling.

Every home that has an elderly man or woman should be provided with a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Eight million bottles were bought at drug stores last year. It is a truly wonderful constipation remedy.

Send me your name and address and I will send you a free trial bottle of my Syrup Pepsin. Address me Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 513 Washington Street, Monticello, Illinois. Every body now and then needs a laxative, and it's well to know the best. Write me today.

DEAR OLD PETE:

Just wound up the one swellest day of my life! Since early this morning, when I got an invitation to visit R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. factories, I've been in the midst of millions of Camel cigarettes.

Man—the happiest idea you or I ever had as to the size of this Reynolds enterprise, or the number of Camels manufactured daily, is simply piker-stuff! Wipe off the slate and start fresh! Why—Pete, it seemed to me like a couple of those cigarette-making machines could keep half the nation smoking Camels steadily—BUT—honest to goodness, there are hundreds of these machines batting out Camels at the rate of 27,000 an hour—EACH!

Pete, you wouldn't have to consult a guide book to know you were in the Camel factories! The atmosphere is charged with that wonderful aroma you get when you open up a deck of Camels! And, you know, old elephant—you've had a trunk full!

As the Camels dropped into the containers I figured the delight each one would supply! And, how Camels mellow, mild body would hit the right spot and how Camels refreshing flavor would cheer up some smoker's jaded appetite! And, each Camel free from any unpleasant cigarettey aftertaste or unpleasant cigarettey odor! And—

Pete—I'll have to lay off and light another Camel! Write you some more soon.

Yours joyously

THE ISSUE IN WISCONSIN

We do not know how many members the Non-Partisan league has in Wisconsin, but Wisconsin is a rich pasture for its proselytizers. If it had 25,000 members at $18 per head that would be $450,000. If it had 50,000 members it would mean $900,000. It will be seen that the possibilities are large, also the inducements to the organizers who have come over here from North Dakota and Minnesota.

If the Non-Partisan league were truly an association of farmers designed to promote their economic welfare through better marketing facilities and other agencies contributing to agricultural efficiency and profit the large dues it collects would build cooperative elevators, mills absorbing farm products and would set up banks if needed.

If the Non-Partisan league were that sort of an organization, formed on business principles, it would be a powerful instrument of good to the farmer, who unquestionably is in need of better marketing facilities, cooperative selling, etc. And if it were that kind of an organization it would go about its purpose in a business-like manner, with capable executive heads to direct its work and insure results.

But the Non-Partisan league is a political organization, formed theoretically to give class government to the farmers, which is wrong, and to turn the state over to socialism, which is worse. Instead of bringing about business and economic cooperation among the farmers, it seeks to drag the state into the matter. Let us see how it has operated in North Dakota.

William Langer is the attorney general of North Dakota. He was originally a member of the Non-Partisan league, entering it in the belief that it was to introduce cooperative activities on a large scale to agriculture, and was twice endorsed by it for attorney general and elected. He has found out that it is not that kind of an organization, but is socialism pure and simple and is seeking political power to advance socialist government and to reap for agitators the spoils of state socialism. Mr. Langer has come to Wisconsin to warn its people against the Non-Partisan league. He is here as the patriotic citizen of a sister state endeavoring to render service to our people. He has no league, no party, no organization to boost. He has come simply in the interest of truth and good government. Here is what he said in his Milwaukee address:

The farmers of North Dakota have learned at bitter cost that the Non-Partisan league is neither a farmers' nor a laborers' organization; that in truth it is an organization of the leaders of which are socialists, masquerading so cleverly that in a few years they got thousands of farmers to join their organization. . . .

The Non-Partisan league is socialism under another name and under another name in North Dakota, Leon Durocher, a socialist on the payroll of the national socialist organization as lieutenancy organizer, said the league has accomplished more for the socialists in five years than the Social party could have done in 25 years. . . .

Bowen, Townley and Le Seour, the leaders of the Socialist party in North Dakota, according to their own statements, use the name Farmers' Non-Partisan Political organization, after they all three of them ran for office on the Socialist ticket. All three of them had been defeated and all three of them had come to the conclusion that the Socialist party as such could get nowhere in North Dakota and the United States. . . .

So much for the record in North Dakota, where Mr. Langer says the farmers are fast coming to their senses and are deserting the Non-Partisan league by the thousands. It proves conclusively that the Non-Partisan league is state socialism masquerading under an assumed name. State owned elevators, flour mills, packing houses and banks can lead to but one end, and that is state ownership of land, which is the cardinal principle of socialism. This, then, is what the farmers of the northwest are heading toward in tying up with this organization of socialists. Is Wisconsin going to be duped by an outfit of this character? Are its farmers going to turn millions of dollars over to them to spend for political and personal power. Are they going to in the bargain put their necks in the noose of socialism and ultimately have to fight it at a disadvantage or have their land taken from them?

Socialism is the supreme issue in the election in Wisconsin next Tuesday. It is the only real issue. It is the kind of socialism that in Minnesota and North Dakota that opposed the war, and it is now tying up in its invasion of Wisconsin with the anti-war forces of this state. It is allied with La Follette, Thompson and Blaine. The two latter are praising La Follette's anti-war record to the skies. They have repudiated the Republican platform and have turned themselves over to North Dakota socialism, which, by the way, cost the people of that state approximately $3,700,000 in taxes last year as against $1,700,000 in 1918.

The farmers who are paying their good money to join the Non-Partisan league and who propose to vote for its candidates are buying their way into socialism. If there is one class of citizens who ought to fight socialism with all their power and with no quarter, it is the farmers. The paid agents of socialism from Minnesota and North Dakota have gone over the state, duping them and taking their money and votes under the grossest misrepresentation. Next Tuesday is the date on which Wisconsin is to decide whether it turns to socialism or turns it down. If it turns it down it will elect Leuroot senator and McCoy governor.

MACSWINEY'S DEATH

The long and in every way phenomenal fast of Terrence MacSwiney, lord mayor of Cork, has ended in his death, thus refuting the assertions that he was being fed willingly or unwillingly. Because of his official prominence and his high activities as a Sinn Feiner his death stands as one of the most notable sacrifices an individual has made for a great cause. Although American sympathy is strongly with the cause he gave his life for, the merits of the cause are not involved in the protest that his self-destruction involves. It was a remarkable exhibition of determination and courage which will become historic.

The Irish revolutionists will place the responsibility for MacSwiney's death upon the British government. Those opposed to them will absolve the government from responsibility. What effect it will have upon the fortunes of a free Ireland only the future can determine. Undoubtedly it will strengthen the zeal of the Sinn Feiners and will arouse the maximum resistance to British dominion. It is possible it may contribute to a successful outcome of the rebellion, but it also is possible that British power may not be overcome even with the added fighting spirit this sacrifice will impart. No one can say.

Certainly it will not serve to promote an amicable understanding between Great Britain and the Irish who are demanding complete freedom. It will drive them farther apart than ever and viewed in this light it is difficult to see what the government has gained by making a martyr of MacSwiney. His death, which is to be deplored, fastens world interest upon the Irish situation with great intensity and will add tremendously to the sympathy for a liberated Ireland which already exists.

UNCLE ICHABOD—HE WONDER WHY

"Somehow," said Uncle Ichabod, "it's most distressful."

To see some other chap too dazed successful. As long as he is somewhere near our spend. We're willing for the fellow to succeed. But when he dwells all of us common folks. We just sit 'round and hope-to-god he chokes.

"A fiver hub-dub in the mud, or sand. Most allus makes me want to lend a hand. But if it's some Twin Light, most likely I say 'Haw! haw!' as I go a-scootin' by. It's cursed mean to hand him such a jar. But damn a man that's got too good a car!"

"When some poor, little fellow stubs his toes, We help him brush the landscape off his shoes. But if him his world-beater gets a jolt, The minute we suspect he's lost his bolt, Instead of rushing in to offer help, The most of us just stand around and yelp!" REFERRED TO ST. PETER

I am 51 years old, and I use a pencil because of the ancient my old hand plays with pen and ink. I write an optimistic reader. Six months ago I was taken with dizzy and faint spells. The doctor pronounced it hardening of the arteries. Two men have told me they have been cured of this disease by drinking distilled water. Is there anything in it? And would somersaults do me any good? Thanking you in advance, I remain, Yours, D. S. W.

As for the distilled water, there is absolutely nothing in it. That is why they distill water. But in all truth I can assure our correspondent that no amount of distilled water will do him any harm; and that hard water is not a factor of hardening of the arteries.

Arteries hard enough to make a man dizzy—and they need not be very hard to do that—are hard for keeps, harsh though it seems to say so.

Hardening of the arteries, like wrinkled skin and gray hair, can't be cured.

As for the taking of somersaults. Now, there's a remedy with some possibilities. I would not care to say that six somersaults every night and every morning will cure arteriosclerosis or anything like that, but if I could only put it gently, without fear of being confronted later with my assertion, I could speak very favorably of somersaults as a remedy for hardening of the arteries—for hardening arteries, mind you, not hard hardened arteries.

Had our correspondent started some forty or fifty years ago taking somersaults he might have kept these arteries reasonably soft and youthful.

Speaking of dizziness—a thing I hate to mention—it should be clearly understood that dizziness is not ordinarily suggestive of hardening of the arteries. Most of us who enjoy good health have our little dizzy spells occasionally—dizziness therefore is not necessarily an abnormal occurrence.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

New Variety of Insomnia

I am a sufferer. I have been told from nervous insomnia . . . (J. J. M.)

ANSWER—I have heard of "nervous" indigestion, "nervous" exhaustion, "nervous" prostration and "nervous" debility. "Nervous" insomnia is a new one to me, and I am unable to comprehend what it means. Usually there is some real physical cause for sleeplessness, just as there is for so-called "nervous" indigestion and the other disease conditions to which the meaningless qualification of "nervous" is applied. Perhaps a careful general examination by your physician would be advisable.

Nothing Ice Cold

Will 2 quarts of ice cold milk a day hurt a young man 22 years of age? Also, what is the cause of a pain in the right side of the chest? (G. G.)

ANSWER—It is better not to take beverages ice-cold or extremely hot. The ice-cold may be responsible for the pain. Two quarts of milk a day would be all right.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

C. E. Pope of Kaukauna was in Appleton. Leo Gruelich of New York was in the city on his way north on a hunting trip.

D. W. Dean returned from a business trip to Nebraska, Iowa, and Minnesota.

It was reported that capitalists were looking over the ground near Antigo with the view of building a paper mill somewhere in that vicinity.

A genuine wintery appearance greeted early risers, the ground being covered with snow.

Van Wyk's delivery team ran away on North Division street doing considerable damage.

George P. Hitchcock, shipping clerk at Appleton Woolen Mills, left for New England, where he was to visit the paper trade in the interest of Appleton felt.

Lawrence university sold to Prof. DeLand the property on Durkee street between Appleton Screen Plate Works and the home of Mrs. Salisbury.

The common council and city officials visited Menominee, Mich., upon invitation of officials of that city to inspect the system of sewerage, flushing arrangement and other improvements there.

The tailor shop of Joseph Johnson and the hardware store of Schlagel Huettner were scorched by a chimney fire.

Edredson was advertising solid oak seats and dining room chairs at 75 cents each.

Louis J. Robinson received a check of five dollars from a Chicago newspaper for correctly solving a puzzle.

THE TRAIL BLAZER

We hear much less these days about the trail blazer. I speak for the trail blazer. I have nothing but cheers for the trail blazer. They mean well and want to do better. But I have more than cheers for the trail blazer.

It is great to go up against the wilderness—to strike in where no one has gone on before you; to chip the forest trees so that those who come after you may find the way, to face unseen perils, to adventure the unknown and the untried, to have a heart of courage in the dark, and a resolute will that declines to respect a barrier. All this is great. It is the story of the trail blazer.

It is, if possible, greater when the wilderness he goes up against is life itself. There are trails to be blazed in human society. Most of us meander the old cow-paths and are satisfied. Ours is a type of mind that does not look kindly to a new idea. We worship at the shrine of tradition. We have great respect for a precedent, and are quite satisfied to let well enough alone.

Not so the trail blazer. He is not a lover of the way the thing has always been done; but of the way it never has been done. He insists that wrongs are not to be endured, but redressed. He is something of a progressive, very much of a radical, occasionally an iconoclast. One must admit he is not always prudent. Sometimes in smashing idols he justifies a real saint; but if the saint is alive, he can climb back to his niche. Sometimes in clamoring for the new, he is not quite reverent to the old.

Advertising Paul Revere

By Frederic J. Haslin.

Boston, Mass.—Paul Revere seems to be Boston's favorite character, and no city ever had a more satisfactory hero.

The prime requisite for fame is a good press agent. Revere was fortunate in having Longfellow. Before Longfellow wrote up the midnight ride in beautiful verse, Paul Revere was no more a popular hero than Daves or Prescott, the men who accompanied him on the now famous adventure.

During his lifetime, Revere had made a name as a prosperous merchant and mechanic and a trustworthy patriot. He had the nicknames of "Bold Revere" and "the Mercury of the Revolution," and he was a well-known character around Boston. But when he died nobody thought that he would ever figure as a statue in a public square, or that people would pay to see the room where he worked and the contrivance with which he stirred his toddy.

Revere had been dead forty years when Longfellow happened on an account of the ride by which a man named Paul Revere warned patriots around Boston that the British were marching on Concord, April 18, 1775. It was only one of the many messages which Revere carried, and it was not more important than some of his other Government missions, but the details attracted the poet, and by touching them up a bit he produced a narrative that was to put Paul Revere's name and picture in every American history.

In the main, Longfellow's story stands unchallenged. A few liberties with fact have been proved, such as that Revere had the signal lanterns hung in the North Church for the benefit of certain other colonists in case he was captured, and did not, as the poem says wait impatiently on the other side of the river to catch the signal before starting his ride.

A Great Press Agent

Longfellow's poem proved the cornerstone to Revere's fame. His career and souvenirs of his existence were eagerly unearthed. Once he was discovered, he caught the popular fancy. Now everywhere you turn in Boston and thereabouts, you find that the intrepid Paul has been there first and made the spot famous.

The house where he lived from 1770-1800 still stands as a historic landmark in the old North Square. It is the oldest house in Boston, if not in the State of Massachusetts. It was over a hundred years old when Revere bought it. Then it was considered a mansion, and a good example of the colonial country house modified to fit a city lot. Now it is jostled by tenement structures and looks out on a swarm of Italians, Russians, and Slavs. The contrast of the old, dignified wooden house and the little Italians who jabber school-book history at you in chorus and then hold up their hands for a nickel is sufficiently picturesque to brighten the eye of the most jaded traveler.

It was from this residence that Revere went out to his ride. The spot where he got his horse, was captured by the British and in other ways made history, have been carefully located and labeled with nice, permanent tablets. A town within commuting distance of Boston has been named for him. The so-called Coney Island of New England has long been Revere Beach, though now for some obscure reason it is referred to as Crescent Beach. If this change of title ever comes to the official notice of Revere's most fervent admirers there will probably be a controversy as to whether or not it, and the slight to Revere will be deemed in all possible tones of patriotic invective until his name is again on the electric lights and the hotel stationery.

Revere is memorialized in Boston by a statue representing him as he draws rein to arouse some colonist to the danger of the approaching British. A large mural painting in the State House on Beacon Hill shows him in full gallop, shouting his message to a couple in a doorway. You get a different glimpse of his varied career when you see the old frigate Constitution—Old Ironsides—anchored in Charlestown Navy Yard, for Revere had the Government contract for the brass and copper work when she was begun in 1794.

His Name is Everywhere

Besides all these reminders of Revere's fame, there are a host of shops, factories and buildings that have taken his name, and a society has been organized to keep his memory always green and to maintain "There, Paul Revere," she said, "I have come all the way from my father's grave. I have waited sixty years, Paul Revere, to put these flowers on your grave."

One of the officials of the City Cemetery Department tells how, one evening, during the front of the house, gray-haired woman with a gray hair box came into his office and asked how to find the grave of Paul Revere. This official was going home, so he walked down with her to the Garnary and led her to the grave. She read the stone carefully and breathed a sigh of satisfaction. With his help she took out of her box a great bunch of hot-house roses and arranged them by the stone. Then she stepped off, picked up her skirt on each side and made a low curtsy.

"There, Paul Revere," she said, "I have come all the way from my father's grave. I have waited sixty years, Paul Revere, to put these flowers on your grave."

Madison—When the soldier bonus tax collected last year is not included the taxes in Wisconsin for the coming year for general purposes will be over half a million dollars higher than the taxes for the same purposes one year ago, according to compilations made at the office of Secretary of State Hull Wednesday. The taxes for general purposes will amount to $7,553,371.27. The taxes for general purposes last year, not including the soldier bonus was $7,125,365.85. This is an increase of $428,005.42. The tax rate in the state of Wisconsin remains the same for general purposes but the valuation of all property in the state during the last year has increased $502,430,000.

Certifications of the tax roll will be sent to the 71 counties of the state within a few days. Including the total tax for general purposes of $7,553,371.27 and the special assessment bringing the grand total to be collected by the state to $8,355,808.92.

Each county in the state pays to the state a certain percentage of the property taxes to the value of the property in the county as fixed by the tax commission in the state assessment.

his home as a place of historic interest.

The average American outside of Massachusetts knows Paul Revere as a man who rode to warn somebody in an American war. The people around here, brought up on Paul Revere, know him as one of Boston's most ardent patriots during the Revolutionary war, one of the ring leaders in the Boston Tea Party, a copper plate engraver, dentist, gold and silver smith, financier, soldier, versemaker, and the father of seventeen children. In all these fields, save that of poet, Revere's ability was regarded with respect. His teapots and tankards are much sought by connoisseurs, not only for their historic value, but because of really beautiful workmanship.

His career as the first dentist in Boston is a surprise to many people. A copy of the Boston Gazette for September 19, 1786, contains this advertisement of his dental work: "Whereas many Persons are so unfortunate as to lose their Fore-Teeth by Accident and otherways, to their great Detriment, not only in Looks, but in speaking both in Public and Private: This is to inform all such, that they may have them replaced with Artificial Ones, that look as well as the Natural and answer the End of speaking to all Intents, by Paul Revere, Goldsmith, near the head of Dr. Clarke's Wharf, Boston."

Fitting artificial teeth was one of Revere's numerous side lines, by which he kept the crowd of young Reverses comfortably fed and clothed. One interesting glance of his dental work has come down to us. General Joseph Warren, who died and was buried at the Battle of Bunker Hill, was later dug up to be buried elsewhere. Two brothers of the general identified the body. Besides this, a friend reports, "If stronger evidence of its identity were wanting, that afforded by Colonel Revere, who set the artificial tooth, and who recollected the wire he used in fastening it in, would afford it."

The Revere Portraits

Revere was on friendly terms with Hancock, Samuel Adams, Copley, the artist, and many other great men. Both Gilbert Stuart and Copley, the two noted painters of the Revolutionary great, made portraits of Revere. Copley painted him as a sturdy man of about forty years and Stuart when he was old with white hair and a gentle, peaceful face. The Copley portrait, which is valued at around $100,000 is in the possession of Revere's descendants. It has rarely been displayed, but a few months ago arrangements were especially made for a reproduction of it to hang in the Revere house.

The Revere house is now a sort of museum. Some years ago, the house was to be sold and probably (or now) a great grandson of Revere heard of it and bought it. He later sold it to the Paul Revere Memorial Association, which had it restored as nearly to the original condition as possible. This meant tearing down additions which had been made by recent owners, so that the house would again be the old two-story wooden structure with the second story overhanging the first, windows fitted with diamond panes, and the heavy front door sludded with big nails. One of the original window frames remained. Some of the pieces of pane had turned purple due to a characteristic defect in the glass of that period, so in the reproductions of the front of the house an occasional purple glass diamond was carefully inserted. To furnish the house the society collected old colonial furniture, some of it the actual property of Revere.

In the old Granary Burying Ground the grave of the hero is marked with a little low stone, and a monument close by. It is one of the most sought-after graves in a city of famous dead.

One of the officials of the City Cemetery Department tells how, one evening, during the front of the house, gray-haired woman with a gray hair box came into his office and asked how to find the grave of Paul Revere. This official was going home, so he walked down with her to the Garnary and led her to the grave. She read the stone carefully and breathed a sigh of satisfaction. How much does a Butcher's thumb weigh?

The answer is—"It all depends on who your butcher is."

In buying meat, marmalade, twin beds or twin sizes, the main thing you have at "steak" is getting your money's worth and if you don't complain when an unseen weight is thrown on the profit side of the scale you are not only robbing yourself but you are doing an injustice to the next man in line.

As long as you stand for mediocre values—the longer mediocre values will sit up and wait for you.

The meat of this message is this: We are trying mightily and honestly to keep prices down—values up—customers in—competition out and if you had any idea of the amount we increased our volume these last three months—you'd know we were succeeding.

THE BOOK OF DEBORAH

Bob Didn't Care to Know the Truth About Miss Miller, I Felt.

The truth about Benjie's romance was known to but four or five persons. He was supposed to have married a wife in Canada just before he died. Not even Katherine's mother, much less the public, surmised her secret.

Katherine had seen her child several times at the Lorimer house and more than once had I watched her shrink away from her own flesh and blood. Never had I known her to betray even a normal interest in her baby except as a bait to attract Bob.

And so when Bob announced that the tiger woman had requested him to call to talk about Babe, I wasn't the least bit mollified. I had gone through similar experiences, and I had been awfully unhappy, and Bob knew it, and if he loved me at all, he ought to spare me a repetition of my old misery. I said to myself, then aloud:

"You have a business office down town, Bob, where a woman can call in the day time."

"With twenty employees ready to chatter if the city's famous beauty came to me instead of going to her father's lawyers! You know Jane her lawyers never have had her secret."

"Yes—I know," I assented.

"Katherine is determined to take Babe away from mother," Bob continued.

I laughed sarcastically before I spoke.

"Katherine is erratic and she doesn't intend to acknowledge her baby," I murmured. "Believe me, friend husband—"

I shut my lips suddenly to keep from adding:

an excuse for seeing you, a claim upon your sympathy! Ugh!"

Aloud, I concluded:

"Mother will not give the baby up." "It would, of course, be good thing for the child's own mother," Bob protested.

"Nonsense! Katherine isn't fit—" But what use are words in a great emotional crisis?

I would not enlighten Bob as to Miss Miller's character. I couldn't, I told myself, because he didn't care to have the truth about her! If he were curious about any phase of it, let him investigate for himself!

As any other jealous woman would have done, I added bitterly:

"The child was dyed months ago. Did Katherine care then? No! Your parents saved her baby's life. Now the child is coming home. Miss Miller seizes her chance to be with you, it's guardian! By the way, Mother Lorimer says the baby is a beauty—she looks just like her mother!" This with a half glance at my husband.

"She's a sure enough beauty then!" Bob commented.

His remark made me furious. I was speechless. In my distress, I crept close to his side, and placed an appealing hand upon his arm.

"Can't you see?" I whispered. I wanted him to see how I needed to "make up"—even if I wasn't beautiful!

"See—what?" he asked. He was only dense but I thought him brutal.

I retreated to the further edge of the walk, wondering how an acute man can be blinded by the trickery of a metronome!

"Pam!" fate had tossed a new stake between Katherine and me!

A Lorimer child must be raised in the Lorimer way. And a Lorimer man must be kept faithful to the Lorimer ideals!

I held up my head proudly.

It was not beautiful like my rival's but I hoped it was cleverer than her's.

PREFERS CENTRAL HI TO COCKFIGHTS AND TYPHOONS OF ORIENT

Washington—Miss Gretchen Campbell, 17-year old daughter of Congressman Phil Campbell, has returned to Washington after a four months' tour through the Orient with her father and other members of the congressional junket. She says she is glad to get back to her studies in Central High School, for she is tired of tea, rickshaw, cockfight and ships ploughing through a typhoon. "Hawaii I liked best," she says. "The beach at Waikiki is all they say it is."

YOUNG GIRLS NEED TO DO MORE WORK

Wash Dishes and Sweep Floors Is Athletic Director's Advice.

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Toledo, O.—Unless the high school girl of today is taught the great need of physical training, school girls will be weaklings—poor mothers and inefficient business women—within ten years.

That is the word of warning sent out by Miss Amelia Armbruster, for ten years physical training director in the public schools of Toledo.

"If mothers would make their daughters wash dishes and sweep floors occasionally," she says, "the girl would be getting some needed exercise."

Cannot Stand Gym Work.

Ten years ago, according to Miss Armbruster, high school girls through out the country were athletic and went in for ring and bar work. Girls cannot stand that work today, she declares, and many who attempt it become internally injured.

"The present day school girl is flat-chested, frail of body and easily exhausted," she says.

Auto rides instead of hikes, movies instead of proper exercise, late parties and improper clothing, are given by Miss Armbruster as the chief reasons for lack of vitality in the school girls.

One girl still in ward school, according to Miss Armbruster, attended twenty-seven movies in one month.

Fear to Become Masculine.

"In winter some of these girls come to school in thin georgette waists and tiny silk camisoles. They hop around the school in tight skirts and French heeled shoes, and are tightly corseted throughout the day."

Many of the girls are afraid to take up physical training, Miss Armbruster says, because they fear they will become masculine. They are afraid to enlarge their waist line and get some real muscle on their arms.

Parents, in many instances, are to blame for this condition, according to the director. A few years ago people expected children to help themselves in everything. Then a campaign to help the child was started, and the result is worse—everything is done for the youngster.

"The pendulum will have to swing back and strike a happy medium before our girls get back to the normal healthy condition of ten years ago," she says. "The lack of proper exercise affects the child's school studies, and many seem unable to concentrate properly upon their lessons."

Miss Armbruster suggests that a campaign of physical training be started throughout the country by athletic instructors for girls in ward and high schools.

Didn't Care What Happened

"I became a physical wreck from stomach trouble and was a fit subject only for the operating table or graveyard. Being discouraged, I gave way to drink, which made things worse. I got so I didn't care what happened, and wanted to die. Mayr's Wonderful Remedy has cured me of everything. Am now in fine condition and feel 25 years younger." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.—All druggists.

Skin Blemishes

How to get rid of them

Skin specialists are tracing fewer and fewer troubles to the blood. They say more often, skin blemishes can be traced to the bacteria and parasites that are carried into the pores of the skin with dust, soot and grime. To clear your skin of blemishes caused by this insidious and persistent enemy, use regularly the following special treatment.

Just before retiring, wash in your usual way with warm water and Woodbury's Facial Soap; then dry your face. Now dip the tips of your fingers in warm water and rub them on the cake of Woodbury's until they are covered with a heavy cream-like lather. Cover each blemish with a thick coat of this soap cream and leave it on for ten minutes. Rinse very carefully with clear, hot water; then with cold.

In addition to this special treatment, use Woodbury's regularly in your daily toilet. This will make your skin firm and active. It will help the new skin to resist the frequent cause of blemishes. Before long your complexion will take on a new clearness and freshness.

Get a cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap and begin tonight the treatment your skin needs. You will find Woodbury's on sale at any drug store or toilet goods counter in the United States or Canada. A 25 cent cake will last a month or six weeks.

RHEUMATISM LEAVES YOU FOREVER

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours.

Every druggist in this county is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer in this vicinity that if two bottles of Allenru, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not stop all agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

Allenru has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and pitious and where the patient was helpless.

Allenru relieves at once. Immediately after you start to take it the good work begins. It searches out the uric acid deposits, dissolves the secretions and drives rheumatic poison out of the body through the kidneys and bowels. It's marvelous how quickly it acts. Blessed relief often comes in two days, and even in cases where the suffering is most painful all traces disappear in a few days.

Mr. James H. Allen, the discoverer of Allenru who for many years suffered the tortments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenru decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed Schlitz Bros. Company, Voigt's Drug Store, Union Pharmacy to guarantee it in every instance. adv.

FARMERS ARE THROUGH RAISING SUGAR BEETS

Farmers have about finished harvesting their sugar beets. While the crop is up to the average and will yield fair returns many farmers claim they are through raising the crop on account of labor conditions. When they planted their beets last spring sugar was scarce and high priced and some of them planted several acres for self-protection. At the time the beets were harvested sugar was plentiful and had dropped more than 50 per cent in price.

Western Michigan Businessmen Show Their Approval to

By United Press Leased Wire
Grand Rapids, Mich.—The proposed establishment of a waterway from the Great Lakes to the St. Lawrence river was endorsed at a meeting here today of western Michigan business men with the international joint commission. The meeting was presided over by former U. S. Senator C. D. Clark of Wyoming.

L. R. Connolly, for many years in charge of transportation for the international Harvester corporation and for the United States steel corporation, said:

"If the industries of the United States and Canada are to compete with industries of Europe we must be placed in a position where our freight rates can be placed on the same basis. All the objections that New York can possibly pile up against the project would be purely personal."

"This canal, which would accommodate tramp steamers, is going to be built and it should be built deep enough to accommodate the ships of the world."

CANDIDATE ROOSEVELT STARTS SUIT FOR LIBEL

By United Press Leased Wire
New York.—Charging he had been criminally libelled by the publication of an open letter written by John T. Rathom of the Provisional Journal, Franklin D. Roosevelt today requested United States District Attorney Cady to institute prosecution of all concerned.

Roosevelt alleged copies of the letter which was addressed to him by Rathom and which accused the democratic candidate for vice president of "destroying or sequestering records when he was assistant secretary of the navy," were circulated by the publicity department of the republican national committee. In a statement categorically denying Rathom's accusations, Roosevelt said he was also instructing his attorneys to bring civil suit against Rathom and all persons and newspapers connected with the publication or dissemination of the libel.

The papers referred to by Rathom as having been destroyed or sequestered were in connection with a discharge from the navy.

MARKED WIFE'S SHOES TO TRAIL MOVEMENTS

Madison.—Thomas Flannery thought that he had originated a new idea to detect whether his wife went out with other men. It resulted in his wife getting a divorce in the superior court of Dane county on Monday.

Marking the soles of his wife's shoes with white chalk was Flannery's scheme. His wife cited this as a cause for divorce, saying that her husband did this so that he could tell whether she left the house in the day time.

Mrs. Flannery also testified that he called her vile names. Flannery's whereabouts are unknown to his wife. She left him in 1916.

According to careful estimates, three hours of close study wear out the body more than ten hours of hard physical exertion.

COURT HALTS ATTEMPT TO END "STATE OF WAR"

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington, D. C.—The supreme court of the United States today ended an attempt to bring to an end the technical state of war with Germany when it refused to review a suit brought by Harry S. McCarthey, against Secretary of State Colby.

McCarthey brought suit to force Colby to accept the peace resolution passed at the last session of congress, declaring President Wilson had no power to veto it.

Lower courts denied his plea and supreme court today refused to review their action.

An industry that is fast surging

North Kaukauna on the Chicago and Northwestern railway. One will house a machine shop and the other a large, modern foundry. The latter is urgently needed because the present facilities are seriously overtaxed. The building contract has been awarded to the Ludolf M. Hansen company, Green Bay. A steam shovel will be used for the excavating, and a concrete conveying system carrying the mixture to all points on the grounds will be put into operation. A crew of 50 laborers and 25 carpenters is already at work and more are to be added to rush the building.

The company will continue to manufacture the two patented products formerly produced by the Kaukauna Machine Works and the Moloch Automatic Stoker company. One is the Mayer steam hammer and the other is a stoking device attachable to boilers, which feeds the coal automatically and with regularity, saving the labor of many coal shovellers. Several are installed at the plant of the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power company here.

HOME NURSING IS POPULAR COURSE

This Feature of Red Cross Service Is Proving Its Value to Women.

One of the most useful activities of the Outagamie chapter of the American Red Cross is the course in home nursing and care of the sick that is taught at the Columbus and fifth ward schools by Miss Bertha Schultz and Miss Elizabeth Nienhaus. They have been appointed by the central division of the Red Cross to render this service at the night schools.

The classes are full and there is a waiting list of others, who wish to join, but there are not enough nurses available to teach these subjects. The Red Cross hopes to extend this useful service.

Many practical and valuable topics are taken up in these classes. The nurses are teaching the people that right food means better health; that well nourished children mean a strong nation.

Proper methods in the sick room come in for a share of the training. The students are taught how to bathe a patient in bed, how to make a bed with a helpless patient in it, how to elevate the bed and why, and how to take temperature, pulse and respiration. Protection of a family from preventable disease is also considered, and many suggestions are given for keeping well and staying well.

Care of infants is also touched upon in the classes. How to bathe babies properly and how to nourish and properly provide for their comfort is shown by the nurse-instructors.

It is said that few housewives have a definite knowledge of what they should do when sickness enters the home. They are usually helpless until a doctor or nurse arrives, whereas they could have done much for a patient's comfort or relief in the meantime. Knowledge of how to treat even the common ailments that some time or other visit every home is often limited or lacking. The Red Cross is filling this gap with its night school course as a part of its community service, and intends to develop this practically untouched field.

Part of the funds realized from the annual Red Cross call is devoted to work of this kind. It is believed that people will enroll in as large numbers this year as in the past, and perhaps in greater numbers, in view of the benefits which will accrue to the citizens of Outagamie county. The roll call opens Armistice day, November 11, and continues until November 25.

TODAY IS LAST DAY FOR REGISTRATION

Today is registration day and it is the last opportunity voters will have to register before election day. Those who do not register before election day will be required to have their ballot sworn in which will involve considerable extra time and trouble. The polling places were opened at 9 a. m. and will close at 8 p. m.

City Clerk E. L. Williams states that the expense of registration day Tuesday will be $550 and that the total expense of the election to the city will be about $2,000.

GET DEMOCRATIC VIEW OF LEAGUE

Dr. Reinsch Will Be First Democrat to Discuss Pact in Appleton.

When Dr. Paul S. Reinsch, democratic candidate for United States senator comes here Wednesday to discuss the campaign issues, he will be the guest of a large number of prominent Outagamie county democrats. The distinguished visitor will be entertained at dinner at six o'clock and will be escorted to Kaukauna where he is to speak in the evening. Dr. Reinsch will speak at the armory here at four o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

The speaker is one of the best informed men on international affairs in the United States. He was formerly ambassador to China and was connected with the University of Wisconsin for many years. He has been described as one of the ablest men in the United States.

Inasmuch as there has been squabbling over the League of Nations and its meaning for nearly two years, it will be interesting to hear a democratic explanation. He will be the first democrat to discuss the matter in this city. Former President Taft and Senator Lenroot have presented the problem largely from a republican standpoint but it has never been discussed here from a democratic viewpoint.

With the campaign rapidly drawing to a close, interest in politics is growing rapidly. While the campaign is not nearly as intense as in previous elections, still there is plenty of information to attract the national eye. The state fight is attracting much campaign. In the county districts where the county candidates are working, there is considerable interest in the county race.

Political rallies are scheduled for every night this week in Appleton. The Farmer-Labor league, which is working for the election of candidates endorsed by the Non-Partisan league, is particularly active. A special effort is being made to have the women vote the Non-Partisan ticket. A house to house canvass is being made to bring about this result.

It is probable that the last week of the campaign will see the hardest drive against the league candidates. Republicans and democrats are uniting to boost the country with literature showing up the league and its principles in an effort to make people realize its menace.

Robert Boettcher, a clerk on the money order division of the postoffice, was injured about six o'clock Monday evening on Lemnaw street when he was thrown from his bicycle and run over by an automobile driven by The two front wheels passed over his body, but no bones were broken.

Boettcher says he was on his way to his home about three miles north of the city. An automobile with glaring lights was approaching from the north, and both he and Mr. Kreling were trying to watch the car and the road until the machine passed. Mr. Kreling evidently was unable to see the bicycle and its rider, and struck Boettcher before he realized what had occurred. Boettcher was unaware that the Kreling car was close upon him until he was thrown to the road.

The front wheels of the automobile passed over Boettcher's body, one of them across the chest. It is believed that the bicycle, which was also un-

"I have suffered intense agony from eczema on my leg and other parts of my body for years, and received only temporary relief from other preparations. It is only a month since I started to use PETERSON'S OINTMENT, and there is no sign of eczema or itching. You can refer to me."—Geo. C. Talbot, 27 Penfield Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

"I've got a hundred testimonials says Peterson of Buffalo just as sincere and honest as this one. Years ago, when I first started to put out PETERSON'S OINTMENT, I made up my mind to give a big box for 25 cents, and I am still doing it, as every druggist in the country knows. "I guarantee PETERSON'S OINTMENT because I know that its mighty healing power is marvelous. I say to every one who buys a box that it is rigidly guaranteed for eczema, salt rheum, old sores, blind, bleeding and itching, piles, ulcers, skin diseases, chafing, burns, scalds and sunburn, and if not satisfactory any druggist will return your money." COLLEGE PEOPLE HEAR TWO "STUDY" LECTURES

Dr. R. C. Mullenix addressed the freshmen girls of Lawrence college at 6:40 o'clock Monday evening at Main Hall. His subject was "How to Study." Miss Foster, instructor in the English department at Lawrence College, addressed the students on the "Bookworm" at chapel services Monday morning. She said that the "bookworm" is characterized by his concentration and his definite ideal toward which he works.

YEAR SENTENCE FOR BEING THIEF

Young Man Admits Burglarizing Friend's Store in Drephal.

John Tagge charged with burglarizing Fred Weishoff's store at Drephal Sunday night, waived examination when arraigned in municipal court Tuesday morning and upon pleading guilty was sentenced by Judge Spence to one year at Green Bay reformatory.

Tagge is a married man 23 years old who had been employed in the town of Cicero for some time. He visited Weishoff's store Saturday and made several purchases. Sunday night after walking part way home with the proprietor he returned to the store and upon effecting an entrance stole a sweater, pair of pants, suit of underwear, two suits of overalls and $20 in cash.

The proprietor reported the theft to Sheriff V. R. Rule whom he also informed that he suspected Tagge. The officer located Tagge at Black Creek Monday and placed him under arrest. Upon his way to Appleton he admitted his guilt.

MAKE 5-YEAR HUNT FOR MISSING LINK

Science to Spend Long Time Searching for Cradle of Humanity.

(Special to Post-Crescent)

New York—Where was the cradle of man? Once more science will make an attempt to find the "missing link" between man and his ancestors. In February by the American Museum of Natural History succeeds, it will be shown that man had his origin from the beasts of the field and forest in the Far East and not, as heretofore supposed, on the British Isles.

Backed with $230,000 supplied by wealthy men, the American Asiatic Society and the Asia Magazine, Roy Chapman Andrews, associate curator of mammals for the museum, will head a large party of scientists and hunters, early next year.

With headquarters at Peking, China, the expedition will spend five years searching the Far East for traces of prehistoric man.

Until a Dutch army surgeon, in 1891, discovered a fossil skull in Java, the only bones of early man and "near-man" had been found in England, with the exception of the famous "Heidelberg Man," part of whose bones were found in Germany. He is supposed to have lived 200,000 years ago.

Now scientists believe that the "Java Man" lived even longer than that. Only fragments of a jaw bone were found and the American Museum party plans now to search for better evidence of the "man before history."

The expedition also hopes to capture some of the wildest animals on earth, antelopes that run 60 miles an hour and wild horses, camels and asses as well as long haired tigers that live on the Gobi desert. Cowboys and hunters will be taken with the party for this purpose.

FOOD PRICES ARE FALLING RAPIDLY

for the narrow margin when they pay higher rates, these men state. Eggs are still high, selling around 35 cents a dozen. The reason given for this is that there is not an over supply at this time, and many farmers are using the eggs themselves in preference to meat. Butter retains its average price around 6 cents a pound.

Canned goods as a rule failed to hit the toboggan, dealers state. This is blamed partly to the unrelenting price of tin, the absence of lower wages in the canning factories and the high price of sugar while the fruit season was on. There has been a slight reduction by the case on some brands, but most of them remain at the high levels.

Pastries are Higher

Despite the lower price of flour, sugar and other materials entering into the making of fancy cookies and crackers, these have not come down at all. Cookies are selling at the highest price ever known, bringing from 50 to 75 cents a pound. Crackers recently took another jump of two cents a pound. Bread stays at its former price. Cocoa and chocolate are lower, the former going down to almost half of what it was, but candies are still selling at the highest mark. Sweets purchased in the old days at 30 cents a pound now bring from 70 to 80 cents.

Meat prices remain constant. The wholesale price of pork declined a few days ago, but none of the cheaper pork has been shipped to retailers as yet. There is a hint that the price may go down within a week. Beef prices show no change. Lard is three cents cheaper than a week or two ago.

The bottom appears to have dropped out of the hide market, which it is believed might keep the price of beef from going down for the present. A few months ago tanneries were clamoring for the hides, and were outbidding one another to obtain them. Now there is no sale for them. The tanneries are said to be overstocked with no demand for leather, and many have closed down. Butchers are holding the hides hoping for an improvement in the market and state that they bring no price at all now.

Autoists are favored by the price decline with respect to tires. One car owner said he was buying tires for only half what he formerly paid. Oil and gasoline were not reduced at all, he said.

Harold Pindie submitted to an operation on his throat at St. Elizabeth hospital Monday.

a member of the One Hundredth post. All college students who were in the service, or who belong to the posts of other cities will also be invited. The purpose will be to interest more men in the Legion and its work, and to swell the membership.

The speaker of the evening will probably be Attorney Ryan Duffy, Fond du Lac, a former officer in the world war. The committees are also trying to secure Mr. Pendahl of Kenosha, state commander of the American Legion, but his presence is not definitely assured.

The presentation of an official Legion flag by the Service Star Legion will be one of the impressive features. The women are to be guests of honor at the banquet.

The entertainment committee plans to mail an invitation to every ex-service man in Appleton and vicinity, so as to make the banquet one of the biggest social events ever held by the post. The entire program is to be announced in a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McLaughlin of Rhinelander and Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Bullinger and Harry Bahlert of Dale spent Sunday at the home of David Bahlert.

Sister Mary's Kitchen

October is the month to put in winter potatoes or at least order them from the farmer.

Learn something about the varieties of potatoes and the soil in which they were grown. There is all the difference in the world between a potato grown in California and one grown in Michigan or the Middle West.

For my own use, I like medium-sized potatoes best. An extra large potato has no great virtue. In fact it is apt to be hollow in the center. Smooth-skinned, even-shaped, medium-sized potatoes are nicest for baking or any way of cooking.

My Own Recipes

In this luncheon menu the real nourishment is supplied in the rice pudding. Rice pudding offers almost all the food elements except minerals, required in a meal. In this case the salad gives the needed minerals.

PEACH SALAD

4 large peaches
1 package Neufchâtel cheese
1 1/2 cup salted almonds
French dressing
1 1/2 cup whipped cream

Pare peaches and cut in halves. Remove stones. Fill cavity with cheese. Put peach on a bed of lettuce hearts. Make a French dressing, using lemon juice in place of vinegar. Whip cream stiff and add to dressing. Pour over peach and add almonds. The dressing should "mask" the peach and be heavy enough to hold the nuts. The salted nuts have more taste than plain blanched almonds.

RICE PUDDING

1 1/2 cup rice
2 tablespoons butter
1 1/2 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 3/4 cups milk
1 1/2 cup seeded raisins
1 1/2 nutmeg, grated
1 1/2 teaspoon salt

Boil rice until tender. Drain and add butter. Beat eggs with sugar and salt till light-colored. Add milk and mix thoroughly. Stir in rice. Add raisins. Turn into a buttered baking dish and grate over nutmeg. Bake in a slow oven for 45 minutes.

SUBMIT NEW PLAN FOR CONTROLLING STOCKYARDS

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington.—A new plan for disposal of packer interests in stockyards under the recent dissolution agreement made with the government was submitted to the District of Columbia supreme court today.

The department of justice announced it is considering the plan which provides five trustees to handle the stockyards for a period of twenty years during which the packers would gradually dispose of their interests to producers and livestock men. The trustees would be appointed by the court.

The Rev. Paul Herb of Stockbridge, visited friends here on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Prink returned from Waupaca Monday evening.

Mata Hari, Who Was Described as "The Woman with the Body of a Goddess and the Charms of a Demon."

By Frank Dallam

BECAUSE this is a remarkable story—that is to say, because its chief actors are remarkable persons, and their entanglements remarkable for an atmosphere of love, licentiousness, riches, hate, intrigue, retribution and penance—it shall have an unusual introduction—nothing more than several short fragments of two newspaper clippings.

Here is the first, detached sentences from a Paris dispatch under date of Oct. 18, 1917, printed generally the next day throughout the United States, telling of the execution by French soldiers of a beautiful woman condemned to die as a spy: "She refused to be blindfolded, but stood gazing at her executioners steadfastly. The officer in command of the firing squad of zouaves had been watching his men like a hawk that none might examine his rifle to try to find out whether he was destined to fire the one blank cartridge among the twelve.

"A sharp cracking command and the 12 men came to rigid attention. Another command and their rifles were at their shoulders, each man gazing along the barrel of his gun at the bare breast of the woman which was the target. She did not move a muscle.

"The commanding officer raised his sword in air. It dropped. The sun flashed on the burnished blade and simultaneously the volley rang out. At the report, Mata Hari fell.

"She seemed to collapse. Slowly she settled to her knees, her head up always, without the slightest change of expression on her face. For the fraction of a second, it seemed, she tottered there looking directly at those who had taken her life. Then she fell backward, bending at the waist with her legs doubled up beneath her. She lay prone, motionless, with her face turned upward to the sky.

Made Sure She Was Executed

"A non-commissioned officer stepped up to the body and drew an army pistol from his black leather holster. Bending over he placed the muzzle of the weapon against the left temple of the spy. He pulled the trigger and the bullet tore into the brain of the woman. Mata Hari was surely dead!"

Next, you are to scan another Paris news dispatch produced in varying verbiage in the leading papers in this country under date of Aug. 7 of this year:

"A barefooted and emaciated monk in the cloisters of the Cartuja of Miraflores, near Bugos, Spain, the last lover of Mata Hari, the beautiful dancer whom the French shot as a spy, is trying to make atonement for having loved to the point of madness the 'woman with the body of a goddess and the charms of a demon.'

"The man whom Mata Hari held in her power so firmly that he could not live without loving her, nor yet forgive himself for doing so, is none other than Pierre Mortissac, the brilliant member of the younger set in Paris, who turned the heads of both Paris and London society."

Interrupting ourselves for a moment, what connection do you see between the events told in the two cablegrams? What secret is concealed in the mind of Mortissac, now known by some monastic name, as he remains for hours on his knees with upturned eyes? Love, say some of you, love that will not perish! Love for this wonderful siren who wrecked the honor and patriotism of many men. To say that would be to scoff at the honesty of a man who has taken holy vows.

Remorse others may say. Perhaps, to a degree; remorse for his wastrel life and remorse for the infatuation which made him do mad deeds. But there is an infinitely more bitter thought that surges through the troubled mind of Mortissac. The truth has just come to light in the latest cablegram. It is a thought of his betrayal by those whom he believed his friends, a betrayal of himself, which after all sent Mata Hari to her death, spy and betrayer though she was herself. There has never been but one other story like it. Then it was told in guise of a drama for the tragic stage.

Have you ever read or seen played "La Tosca" by Victorien Sardou, the French playwright? There is the parallel. In the Sardou drama, Tosca, the heroine, agrees to sell herself to the Baron Scarpia provided he will spare the life of her lover, Mario, who is under death sentence for political crimes. Scarpia promises a mock execution, but after he has accepted the highest toll he can exact from the woman, orders the execution to go ahead and Mario is put to death. Incidentally, Tosca kills the villainous Scarpia, bringing the play to an end, but in the real life tragedy of Mortissac there is no such vengeance, mainly for the reason that he was never able to ascertain who was responsible for the frustration of his plans.

It has been established with authority, nevertheless, that an arrangement was made with certain French officials by which the cartridges fired at Mata Hari were to be blanks; that she was to fall and feign death and that her body was to be borne hastily to a wagon and driven off ostensibly to friends for burial. Establishment of these facts explains now the marvellous exhibition of nerve which marked Mata Hari's last night on earth, and the abnormal composure with which she went from her prison to the place of execution.

After being condemned to be shot as a spy the woman was detained in St. Lazare prison. To gain time for the arrangement of the plot by which she was to be freed, a perfunctory appeal for clemency was made to President Poincare. Pending action on this appeal Mata Hari became the personification of indifference. No word was heard from the President until the morning of Oct. 18, when she was waked at daybreak with the news that M. Poincare had denied her petition. Two nuns bore to her the tidings. The prisoner was unruffled. Then the two sisters told her further that her last hour had come, that an automobile was waiting at the prison gate to convey her to a caserpe at Vincennes. A woman of ice would have displayed more emotion.

"I should like to write two letters," she said, calmly.

This permission was accorded. The letters were written and handed to her lawyer, who was of the death party. One of those letters was to Mortissac.

Then leisurely, as if she were going on a pleasure jaunt, she drew on her black, silken filmy stockings, placed her high-heeled slippers on her feet and carefully tied the ribbon bows over her insteps. Smilingly, she threw over her shoulders a long velvet cloak with trimming of fur, concealing the heavy embroidered kimono which she was wearing over her sleazy nightdress. Nor did she forget her hat. Over her ebony black hair, which was hanging in long thick braids to her waist, she placed a hat of black felt, conspicuous for its immense bows of ribbons and plumes. A pair of elbow-length gloves completed this eccentric costume.

A Petticoated Enigma

"Now I am ready," she said, almost gaily, and she declined, too, offers of assistance in the walk across the prison yard to the waiting motor car.

The first printed accounts of the execution were such as to cause Parisians, cynical and blasé as they are, to gasp. According to these stories, Mata Hari not only maintained her astounding bravado to the last, but she insisted on carrying in her arms as she walked forward to face the firing squad of zouaves a huge bouquet of almond blossoms, and she cheerfully consented to take off her hat. On the authority of an official witness, she walked from the automobile with firm tread and with her arms swinging gracefully at her side, then waited for the volley with the same ease she had displayed when bowing to audiences at the music halls. The secret of this courage is now out. Mata Hari was not expecting death.

A story recently appearing in a Paris weekly devoted to gossip of the theatres and to boulevard happenings hinted broadly that the betrayal of Mata Hari was brought about by one of two men. The writer bluntly called it a betrayal, asserting that the death penalty was persisted in through no mere fidelity to military duty or orders but because the beautiful dancer once had flouted this responsible man for a German officer under whose influence she had entered the imperial secret service.

In all probability the exact truth as to this will never be known. There are many more important matters of history in connection with the world war to be settled. This much may be said without fear of dispute. When the non-commissioned officer placed the pistol to the temple of Mata Hari and sent her unwearied soul to eternity he but duplicated literally one of her own heartless deeds, a deed which she often related with no shadow of remorse in her tones.

Singularly candid in discussing her earlier life, was this petticoated enigma. Her father was a Dutch planter and her mother was a Javanese. Her real name was Marguerite Gertrude Zell. Mata Hari, as she was known, is Javanese for Eye of the Morning. Her first appearance in Paris as a dancer was made about 15 years ago at a reception given to a singer, young and of noted beauty. The prima donna, who has since been heard in America, was then at the height of her fame. Late in the evening of the fete, the strains of weird music drew the guests to a small Doric temple which stood in the garden of the singer's splendid home.

In the dim light the tall, statuesque figure of a woman was revealed. She was dark as night, with heavy masses of black hair held in place with flashing jewels. She wore a wide gold necklace and her arms were covered with endless strands of pearls. Soft-tinted, pearl-beaded veils formed her only garment. She began a slow, voluptuous swaying of the arms and body and, as the music quickened, her steps accelerated in ecstatic delirium. Gradually she divested herself of the veils, casting off one after another until she was entirely nude save only for a jeweled girdle. Then she prostrated herself at the feet of a Buddha in one corner of the temple.

Made Famous Over Night

The dance made her famous over night. In the world's annals of female adventurers, from the time of Helen of Troy, there have been few who had the colorful career of this Javanese half-breed. At the time of her death she was about 40 years old. Her father, who had accumulated much wealth in the Dutch colony of Java, died when she was 4 years old. Her native mother, knowing the fate of most Eurasian girls (mixed white and brown girls born in Asia) determined to keep her from a life of unrestrained and dedicated her to the Buddhist faith. Thus little Marguerite entered the temple of Batavia to become a sacred dancer.

An officer in the British army, Sir Campbell MacLeod, saw her when she was 14 years old and persuaded her to elope with him. They were legally married, but, nevertheless, the unusual clopement caused much scandal in both native, military and ecclesiastical circles, and great as was Sir Campbell's influence he was forced to resign from the army. They went to live in India, where two children were born to Lady MacLeod. The oldest child, a boy, died suddenly in circumstances indicating poisoning. Suspicion pointed to an Indian servant, so Mata Hari took the law in her own hands. With her husband's revolver she blew out the brains of the sleeping servant.

Sir Campbell was absent from home at this time. When he returned it was to learn that his wife had run away to escape trial for murder. He followed her to Paris with the little girl, but his ideals were shattered, for he found his wife living in luxury under the protection of a German officer of high rank, one of the large coterie of the Kaiser's officers who frequented the French capital with sinister freedom before the war. Mata refused to go back to her husband, who returned to his family home in Scotland. He died just before the war cloud burst. The little girl is now with his family.

Associations and acquaintances, formed while Mata Hari was the companion of this German officer, brought her to the attention of the Berlin secret service office. She disappeared from Paris, going to Berlin for a course of instructions. When she suddenly reappeared in Paris in the first year of the war it was as a dancer on the stage. Involved in the meshes of her intrigue were many French officers and men high in administration affairs. Information which she contrived to extract from them was of boundless worth to the enemy.

So irresistible was her personal charm that even after she was convicted she was able to persuade Pierre Mortissac that she was only simulating her role as a spy; that she had revealed nothing of vital truth to the enemy, that she was playing her part only for the vast sums of gold with which the German government rewarded her; gold that would assure him and her luxury for life. He loved her so blindly he believed and plotted to save the beautiful spy who had attempted destruction to his nation.

Mortissac vanished from Paris the week Mata Hari died. It was reported that he had committed suicide. Now the facts have risen to the surface. Like Athaniel, the monk, in Antiole France's tragic tale of Thais, he will finish his life in prayer for the remission of his sins and for the repose of the soul of the woman he loved.

MORRISON SCOFFS BANKERS' ADVICE

Labor Head Avers Laboring Men Are Producing to Maximum of Ability.

By United Press I eased Ware
Washington—Secretary Frank Morrison, of the American Federation of Labor, replied to the American Bankers' association resolution calling on labor to "abandon the economic fallacy that it can gain prosperity through a reduction of output."

"These bankers are delightful humorists when they lecture labor about producing more. Let them tell their story to the automobile workers in the middle west who are laid off by thousands. Let them preach to textile workers in the east where mills are shut down by one of the nation's most powerful and richest trusts. Let them tell building craftsmen their story. Let them tell coal miners to work more when the records show that for the last 12 months these miners have produced more than 53,000,000 tons more coal than in the previous 12 months. Every bituminous mine field in the United States but Alabama and Mingo county West Virginia is in full operation."

"Of these there are two exceptions, where the miners are striking for a living wage."

"The miners elsewhere are smashing all production records and yet we find the price of coal prohibitive and bankers lecturing on the need for greater production."

"The government's record of exports of manufactured goods does not sustain the bankers' position. Let the bankers insist that the law of supply and demand for which they profess such high regard be permitted to operate. Let them call on the trusts and combines to stop fixing prices and to stop closing mills and shops to maintain these present high prices."

WILSON SPONSORS LITERARY LEAGUE

New Organization Seeks to Make Washington Hub of American Letters.

(By Harry B. Hunt)
Washington—Washington—famous not merely as the capital of the United States but as the hub of America's literary and artistic thought and as an international center of world art and culture.

That is the aim of a new organization now being formed here which has as its first patron no less a literary light than President Woodrow Wilson.

As it is expected President Wilson when he returns from the White House March 4, will devote himself largely to literary pursuits occupying a place in the forefront of American historians and authors, his interest in and support of the new organization has given it at once an impetus and influence which normally it would have required years to attain.

The National Pen League and International Literary association, which the president sponsors as first patron is the conception of Mrs. Florence Stoddard of Washington, former president of the League of American Pen women. Mrs. Stoddard held that if Washington was to make the most of its opportunities as a literary and art center some means would have to be found of bringing American men as well as women and also men and women of the other nations represented in Washington, interested in art and letters into an organization through which their mutual interests might function.

That this broader program struck a popular chord is apparent from the fact that about 150 writers, artists and composers have enrolled as charter members. The international representation already includes among others Senor Juan Pardo Spanish ambassador, Senor Alencar, Brazilian ambassador, Senor Elizalde, minister from Ecuador and Senor Cepepedes, minister from Cuba.

Miss Mabel Boardman, former Red Cross leader and author of "Under the Red Cross Flag," has become an active member.

Field of Work
Boiled down here is the field of work the organization will undertake to put Washington on the world's art and cultural map.

To foster literary appreciation and understanding of the works of authors, artists and musicians in all countries.

To encourage the international interest in the output of such producers.

To secure, through the interchange of ideas, a greater world appreciation of American creative work, more general translations of American literary productions and more notice for American artistic and musical compositions.

To make known the advantages of Washington as a place for study and research work and of inspiration of creative writing, composition and design.

To maintain in the American capital headquarters from which authors, artists and composers may receive information relative to their interests.

To receive and entertain foreign writers and artists visiting this country and to send information of their movements to bodies in other cities, allied with the Washington organization, desiring to offer similar hospitality.

Just how far President Wilson's support of the organization will go and what active part he may take in its work when he becomes simply

DE PERE MEN WANT GAME PROTECTED

Appleton Sportsmen Favorable Toward Game Preserver Along Fox River.

Mark Catlin, William Folatick, G. L. Chamberlain and M. A. Schwab will be among the men who will represent Appleton at the meeting of the DePere Game club at DePere Tuesday.

The object of the meeting is to secure expressions of representative men in favor of a proposition to petition the Wisconsin State Conservation commission to establish a game preserve along the Fox river. If the men are in favor of the proposition, a campaign will be conducted to enlist the support of the protective associations in other parts of the state. The petition will be presented to the conservation commission which will probably ask for legislation that will close the river to duck hunters from Little Lake Butte des Morts to Green Bay.

The movement is of recent origin, although sportsmen of the state have long been alarmed at the rapidly with which the game birds are being killed off in this vicinity.

Whether or not an effort will be made to secure a permanent preserve has not been decided. It is thought probable that the preserve would be available for a few years to permit the birds to increase in number.

Mark Catlin, president of the Wisconsin Game Protective Association, said that the men of the Appleton Association had been invited to attend the meeting and to voice their opinion of the proposed petition to the state commission.

"In case the men are in favor of the proposition," said Mr. Catlin, "a campaign will be conducted to enlist the support of the sportsmen in the Fox river valley. A hearing will be held by the state commission and both sides of the case will be presented. Mr. Catlin stated that in the event that the commission decided in favor of the petition, a law would be passed that would prohibit the shooting of game birds at any time of the year.

William Folatick, of the Wisconsin Tissue Mills, who is interested in the preservation movement, said: "The sportsmen are looking ahead, and unless something is done, there will soon be no duck hunting in the Fox river valley."

HIGH TEAM MAY BE IDLE ON SATURDAY

Chippewa Falls Backs Out of Its Agreement to Play in Appleton.

Unless arrangements can be made before Thursday, it is probable that Appleton high school team will be idle next Saturday and the week following too. Chippewa Falls, which was scheduled to play here Saturday afternoon has cancelled its game and efforts to secure another team have thus far been unavailing. Chippewa Falls would not give a reason for cancelling the game after it had agreed to come.

Originally Eau Claire was booked for that date but the western team finally decided that it would have to get more money than the local team was willing to pay. The Eau Claire men wanted to come here Friday to get accustomed to the playing field and conditions here.

Saturday, November 6, was purposely left open to give the team a rest before the game here with Jefferson on Armistice day.

Coach Vincent, however, fears that if both dates are open his team is liable to lose its edge because of the long vacation.

Jefferson has one of the strongest high school teams in the southern part of the state. That game should have an important bearing on the state championship race. The refusal of the western teams to play here will make it difficult for sport critics to compare eastern and western teams and it may be difficult to determine the state champion.

MUST FIGHT HARD TO DEFEAT RIPPON

McChesney's Men Begin Week of Hard Work in Preparation for Saturday.

Coach McChesney and his squad of Blue and White warriors are beginning intensive work in preparation for the battle with Ripon on the latter's gridiron next Saturday afternoon. That battle is regarded as the hardest on the Lawrence schedule and McChesney is pointing his men carefully.

Considerable attention will be paid this week to breaking up forward passes, inasmuch as Ripon excels in that department of the game. It is said that Gustin, Ripon quarterback, is the best passer in the state and is said to be as good a ground gainer as can be found anywhere.

Ripon walloped Carroll college at Waukesha last Saturday, 17 to 0, improving every opportunity to score. If the team was held anywhere near the enemy goal drop kicks were used. The air was literally filled with passes, it was said.

Lunde, big Ripon backfield man, will give the Lawrence line plenty to worry about. This big fellow is said to be one of the best plungers in the state, carrying the ball for good gains on nearly every try. Schaefer, Ripon's star end, is sure to keep the Blue and White men on their toes. All in all, it looks like a busy day for the Lawrence team next Saturday.

McChesney's men finished the Northwestern game in good shape and all the regulars will be able to start against the Red team unless they are injured during the week. McChesney is planning to "pep" them up as much as possible so that they will be able to offset the Ripon speed.

If Lawrence can succeed in walloping the Congregationalists the championship will be assured, because, it is believed, Carroll will not be a hard put to crack.

BIG TEAMS STILL IN THE RUNNING

Ten Powerful Football Machines Fighting for Championship.

(By Henry F. Farrell)
By United Press Leased Wire
New York—Football doctors felt the pulse of ten eastern patients today and pronounced "condition all right," but the crisis is coming.

Harvard, Princeton, Penn State, Syracuse, Pittsburg, Brown, Army, Cornell, Georgetown and Washington and Jefferson are still alive.

Saturday's big card eliminated only Pennsylvania and Lehigh from the chase for the championship and the half way mark finds ten eleven turning into the dangerous part of their schedule.

Penn State, Harvard and Syracuse, however, seem better fixed to go over the rough pike of the next three weeks.

Two southern eleven came east Saturday and spoiled two nice looking records by crossing a hitherto uncrossed goal line.

Centre had to take her first defeat in three years but she crossed the Crimson line twice, Virginia Military Institute smashed through Penn's unbroken trenches so much that Penn lost her first game of the season.

The west is having much better luck in getting "who's who" established quickly.

Illinois, Chicago, and Ohio State occupy the select places in the conference while Notre Dame continues to maul all her opponents.

THE GREAT AMERICAN HOME

M'GOORTY WANTS TO MEET GEORGES

Oshkosh Ring Veteran Confident He Has Something on French Champ.

Chicago.—James Mullen says his veteran Oshkosh fighter, Eddie McGoorty, is entitled to the next crack at Georges Carpentier. Oshkosh has not seen much of the globe trotter McGoorty for several years. He has spent considerable time in Australia, the army and of the while fighting, and except for a couple of setbacks at the hands of English heavies, who outweighed him many pounds, Eddie has done right well, despite numerous years of glove service.

Mullen furnishes the information that McGoorty has had but one fight since coming back to America from London. Eddie has been working out at Lynn, Mass., where he is the guest of Dave Gibson, a great friend he made in the army. McGoorty boxed Dan O'Dowd recently. Eddie will reach Chicago Friday to show people he is in fine fettle for the fall and winter boxing campaign.

The reason McGoorty wants a shot at Carpentier is that he has a hunch he can trim the flashy Frenchman. You know McGoorty boxed with Carpentier quite a bit while Georges was training for his one round knockout of Joe Beckett. Eddie says the Frenchman had nothing on him, would only box a round or so at a trip, and that the last time they put the mitts on he cut up Georges with his left hook. After that Carpentier concluded he did not need Eddie's boxing aid any more, though they still were good friends. McGoorty went into his corner against Beckett in London.

McGoorty admits that Carpentier is dangerous because of his right hand punch, but believes he knows enough about Georges to keep away from that weapon. Eddie is willing to gamble some change, he told Mullen, that Carpentier can not begin to put him away in a ten round engagement. The big idea is that McGoorty would like to show in Milwaukee against the Frenchman and demonstrate to his many Wisconsin friends that he still is the old Oshkosh Whale. Mullen predicts that fight will pack the Milwaukee Auditorium, and he will do his best to arrange it.

WILL SIGN UP FOR BIG TITLE FIGHT

Dempsey and Carpentier Reach Agreement on Terms for Bout in Gotham.

By United Press Leased Wire
New York—Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier are expected to sign here today to box 15 rounds to a decision for the heavyweight championship of the world.

Terms based on a percentage of the gate receipts are said to have been reached between Tex Rickard, promoter of Madison Square Garden, and the managers of the two principals. Rickard and Jack Kearns, manager of the champion, refuse to talk but Francois Descamps, the Frenchman's manager, admitted that negotiations are practically complete.

There seems little hope of having the bout before next spring owing to the unwillingness of the boxing commission to sanction a meeting of such importance until the new boxing law is given a more thorough trial.

Manager Descamps announced today that he had booked passage to return to France with Carpentier on Nov. 6.

"We are going to spend the Christmas holidays there," he said. If the articles are signed, we will return the first of the year and start training for the fight that Carpentier has been seeking so long."

Charles B. Cochran, who holds a contract for the Frenchman's services until 1921, has pooled his interest with Rickard, it is understood.

NELSON WANTS PERMIT TO BATTLE WITH 'DUMMY'

By United Press Leased Wire

The How and Why of Caloric Pipeless Heating

The CALORIC is not a pipe furnace with the pipes left off. Neither is it an experiment, hastily put together to meet a demand. It is specially designed to heat homes, halls, churches, stores, factories, etc., more uniformly, economically and satisfactorily than they have ever been heated by other systems.

The CALORIC works thru nature's own laws of circulation by air currents. Warm air rises. Cold air falls. Warm air and cold air cannot occupy the same space at the same time.

HERE'S THE SECRET

In the same volume that the warm air is pumped up into the house, an equal amount of cold air is drawn into the furnace, where it is heated, moistened by the vapor from the two gallon water pan, and then recirculated through the register. This continues as long as the fire burns.

Thus there is a constant circulation of properly moistened warm air, just as running water purifies.

THE ULTONA Playing a Brunswick Record

THE TONE AMPLIFIER With Grill Removed

"Certainly Better!"

People marvel daily at the Brunswick Method of Reproduction

THE Brunswick Method of Reproduction changes one's ideas of what a phonograph should be. This new method, although we picture above but two of its features, is a unified and scientific development of all that is best in reproducing and amplification.

Note that one feature is the Ultona, an all-record reproducer. This is an exclusive idea, giving to the Brunswick owner the whole realm of record music, unrestricted.

At a turn of the hand, the Ultona presents to each type of record the proper needle and the proper diaphragm. Each type of record is played exactly as intended, but with a finer reproducer—one that brings out hitherto hidden tonal values. No makeshift attachment is necessary.

Note another feature of the Brunswick Method of Reproduction—the Tone Amplifier. It is vastly different. The moulded wooden amplifying chamber is all wood and oval in shape. There is no cast-metal connection of throat.

This development is in accord with acoustic laws. Tone waves can vibrate properly.

If you seek the utmost in tone quality, then you must hear The Brunswick. You will appreciate the superiority at once.

Ask also to hear Brunswick Records—the latest popular "hits" and the finest operatic numbers. Brunswick Records can be played on any phonograph with steel or fibre needles.

After declining to make a statement of his attitude toward protection and propagation of game in the United States for all outdoors because he could not find time to prepare answers for publication in periodicals at this time, Senator Warren H. Harding, a republican candidate for president, has written to G. L. Chamberlain, 492 Rankin street, secretary of the Outagamie County Fish and Game Protective association assuring him that he believes in preserving and protecting game and that he has always lent his efforts to that cause.

The letter was written to reply to a note from Mr. Chamberlain who explained that republican members of the county game organization could not conscientiously vote for him because he is not taking an active interest in the movement that is near to their hearts.

Senator Harding replied as follows: "I have your letter of October 14 and I think you must realize some of the stress of a campaign such as this and of the demands made upon my time and attention which preclude my going into discussions of matters not specifically involved in the issues of the campaign. Briefly, I may say to you that I am an out of doors man that I believe in the protection and propagation of fish and game and that all through my legislative life and as a newspaper editor I have lent my efforts to that cause."

Gov. James Cox democratic candidate for president wrote the following statement at the request of the magazine:

"I am deeply appreciative of and honored by your request for a statement upon outdoor matters. I regret that limitations of time and physical possibility prevent me from writing such an article as I would like at this time."

"It has been one of my constant endeavors that more attention be given to the conservation and enlargement of forests and parks, and the proper care and propagation of fish and game. We have undertaken in this state an elaborate plan of game preservation, and hope in the not too distant future to have set aside large areas for the propagation and preservation of wild life."

"Our thought in this regard is not alone based upon the idea of the sportsman, but because in industrial life itself we are too much inclined to forget the basis of life itself, which is the proper activity and functioning of the home body possible only in proper contact with the outdoors and the things the outdoors represents."

Training for military activity demonstrated as has no other one thing the value of physical education. I hope that it may be possible to carry on throughout the years the plan of physical education such as was employed in the military camps and in such way as to bring it at all times to the youth of the land."

One thing among problems is in connection with the migratory bird law concerning which there is a wide difference of opinion. I will not at this time attempt to outline what in my judgment would be the best method but we are all certainly agreed as to necessity and purpose."

WANT ALL MEMBERS AT C. OF C. FORUM

Must Attend Meetings to Get Good Out of Chamber of Commerce.

The attendance committee of the Chamber of Commerce forum held its first meeting Monday afternoon at the office of the chamber, with Gustave Keller, forum chairman, presiding. Plans were made to secure as large an attendance as possible at the meeting Thursday evening at the Appleton hotel, when the housing subject will be presented by two speakers. Those who do not send in return cards will probably be urged to attend by members of the committee.

The men on the committee agreed that the success or failure of the open meetings depends on having the Chamber of Commerce members present. It was said to be the occasion and place for individual members to take part and express opinions and views on the issues before the meeting. The usefulness of the Chamber of Commerce and the meetings depended on what the members made of them.

A good attendance is promised for the dinner at 6:45 o'clock, judging from the reservations already received. The reservation cards were sent out with the monthly bulletin, and many were returned the same day.

Solution of the housing problem from the housing corporation standpoint is to be presented by Earl F. Miller, of the Earl F. Miller company, Milwaukee. It will be treated from the building and loan angle by P. Linley, Milwaukee. An open discussion follows, but adhering to its rule to take no formal action, no resolutions will be adopted. The matter will go to the board of directors for final action.

Secretary Corbett, who is attending the meeting of the National Association of Commercial Secretaries at Chicago, expects to return Wednesday evening with a new fund of information on the housing question, gleaned from every worth while commercial organization in the country. A survey has been taken by the organization for this purpose.

WIFE CONVINCES MAN THAT HE IS MARRIED

London.—A man who had forgotten that he had married his wife appeared to court when his wife applied for a maintenance order.

Mary Ann Ring claimed she married John Henry Ring when he was on a trip home from the front during the war.

"He says he has no recollection of marrying you," the court told the wife.

"He must have forgotten," replied Mary Ring, and she produced the marriage license.

Ring took a look at it and admitted that he "must be wrong."

Then the court ordered him to pay his wife a certain sum every week.

APPROVE PLAN FOR COMMUNITY HOUSE

Rural Affairs Committee Working on Plans for Proposed Structure.

The community building idea for Appleton was taken up again at the meeting of the rural affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce Monday evening. Representatives of the Appleton Woman's club, the Oney Johnston post of the American Legion and the Outagamie Red Cross chapter were present and gave their views on the subject.

There appeared to be an enthusiastic demand for a building of the kind proposed, and the committee therefore decided to find out how big it should be, how it should be arranged and something about its cost. Chairman William Fountain said that he had conferred with the Appleton Boy Scout council and some of the other organizations not represented at the meeting. Each will now be consulted to find out how much space would be required.

The corn show was also taken up and it was decided to hold it in connection with another meeting of farmers of the county which takes place sometime in January. A committee will be appointed to work out the details of the show, with respect to entries, prizes and other features.

How to Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest. Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup. To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way you make a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure, good and tastes very pleasant. You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—irritated membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment. Pinex is a highly-concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs. Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.
